Court Defers Further Fine For Lewis And Union

Government 'Happy' As Most of Miners Return to Work; Writ Still in Effect

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Federal Justice T. Alan Goldsborough took the Government's advice yesterday and postponed indefinitely giving John L. Lewis another fine.

He was scheduled to consider whether Lewis and the miners' union should be penalized for civil contempt of court. A fine for this offense would have been levied for every day the miners remained away from their jobs in the future.

But as of yesterday morning, more than 85 per cent of them were back on the job. Accordingly, Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison said "the Government is quite happy" and recommended that no penalty be imposed at this time.

Goldsborough concurred at once and, of course, Lewis' counsel, Welly K. Hopkins, offered no objection.

The whole matter was disposed of in five minutes. Morison indicated to reporters later, however, that the question could be renewed at a later date if the miners walked out again. They are still subject to a preliminary injunction forbidding a strike.

But it was confidently expected that by Monday employment in the collieries will be 100 per cent. Less than 50,000 men were out yesterday, of a total of 400,000. And most of these were idle not by choice but because of freight-car shortages or other reasons preventing the mines from reopening.

The National Coal Association reported yesterday that the 29-day strike cost about 53,490,000 tons of coal, or about four weeks' supply.

100,000 GM Workers Begin Week's Layoff

Detroit, April 23 (AP). — About 100,000 General Motors production workers began a week's layoff today due to the coal-steel shortage. Another 100,000 will be laid off for a like period during the following two weeks.

First to go down under the layoff schedules are the GM foundries, machine shops, body-stamping and assembling plants and three of its five main car-building factories. The latter include the Michigan Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac assembly plants.

Eleven Chevrolet assembly plants throughout the country are slated to close during the week of May 3, and on May 10, branch plants of Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac in half a dozen centers are to shut down for a week.

The staggered suspension of GM operations will be the first major effects of the coal mining dispute on the Nation's car industry. Most industry sources say, however, that the four weeks suspension of coal output will be felt on autimobile assembly lines for many weeks.

The car makers in the United States and Canada hit a postwar production peak last month when they built 515,223 cars and trucks. So far this month they have built about 350,000 units.

Ex-Naval Expert Tells of Weapons Better Than Atom

Miami, Fla., April 23 (AP).—Ellis M. Zacharias, former Naval Intelligence expert, says the United States has three weapons far more powerful than the atomic bomb.

In an interview here yesterday he listed them as "bacteriological," "biological," and "climatological."

"Russia knows that we developed these three weapons during the war and due to the tremendous resources in the war, all of the weapons are immediately available in sufficient numbers," he said.

"The atomic bomb ranks fourth in consideration of destructiveness. The atomic bomb has a local effect while the other three are widespread," he added.

Private Power Firms Win First Round in TVA Battle

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Private power forces have won the first round in a fight to block TVA construction of a steam electric generating plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn., testing present and future development of the Tennessee Valley.

This was learned last night as what started out to be a miniature skirmish in a House Appropriations Subcommittee developed into a major private versus public power struggle.

A check last night disclosed that the House Government Corporations Subcommittee considering the TVA request for new steam generating facilities is divided on party lines 4 to 3 against it.

No Formal Vote Taken

No formal vote has been taken, but the bill appeared certain to go to the House floor minus the four million dollars budgeted to start work on the plant. TVA supporters in Congress, charging an all out private utility drive to check the valley development, predicted a showdown fight on the House floor and later in the Senate.

The contest developed into the session's major power issue after Purcell L. Smith, Washington representative of the National Association of Electric Companies, led a procession of private power witnesses before the committee against the project.

The utility witnesses argued TVA lacks constitutional authority to build steam plants, that low TVA rates are pulling industry into the area and away from other parts of the country. If the TVA runs short of hydroelectric power, they argued, it should cut out industrial users and sell only to the people.

Needed for Balance

TVA officials, and other witnesses in TVA's behalf, said the new steam plant is needed to "firm up" the system and provide a balanced year-around flow of power in order to meet present contracts and supply vastly increased community and industrial demands.

To arguments that a steam plant, in hydroelectric territory, is a TVA innovation invading the private power field, they pointed out TVA has always operated some steam plants and in fact took over Tennessee Electric Power Co. steam as well as hydro plants with congressional authority in 1939.

The row will shortly break into the open on the floors of both chambers with valley development advocates charging private interests" want to make TVA a failure and return the valley to its once natral state."

Rift Perils Italy's Red Front Unity

Socialist Leader Proposes Leftist Separation, but No Policy Switch

Rome, Italy, April 23 (U.P.). The Communist Popular Front was threatened today by discontent within the left-wing Socialist Party.

Lelio Basso, secretary of the left-wing Socialists, was reported seeking to avoid a split. He was trying to appease party member Giuseppe Romita who last night came out for the Marshall Plan.

The pro-Communist newspaper, Le Republica, quoted Basso that the Socialist alliance with communists must be retained. At the same time, Basso recognized the election results and said the need to keep a strong Socialist movement alive among leftists would make it necessary to "work for a Socialist Party that stands by itself and therefore apart from the Communist Party."

Basso's proposal would leave an "independent" leftwing Socialist group outside the Communist-led front but with a pro-Communist policy

A walkout by Romita followers would cut left-wing Socialist leader Pietro Nenni's parliamentary strength by at least one third. Basso, himself, drew more votes in the election than Nenni and may take over leadership of the party.

Electoral officials were still working on the final breakdown for seats in the Senate and Chamber.

The unofficial breakdown for parties within the Communist Front showed the left-wing Socialists would get only about 50 of the Assembly's 182 Communist Front seats, a loss of 15. The Communists were expected to take 128 seats. The total complement of hte Chamber is 574.

Romita called a special party conference Sunday to discuss quitting the Communist bloc. Nenni scheduled a meeting of the party's executive group for Monday.

In the La Republica interview, Basso said there was no possibility of dealing with Giuseppe Saragat's right-wing Socialists because they backed the Christian Democrats of Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

The air of tension in northern Italy began to ease, but police continued their arms roundups and an ammunition dump was attacked by terrorists near Bologna.

Result of Italian Vote 'Alarming,' Kennedy Says

Paris, April 23 (NYHT).—Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy said today the Italian election returns were more alarming than reassuring and sharply questioned the policy of United States military guaranties to western European countries.

Kennedy pictured western Europe as a vast space depleted of capital assets and lacking natural resources that would make the Continent a good gamble as an ally.

He said the size of the left-wing vote in Italy was a manifestation of discontent with "the established order," which the United States wants to maintain.

Pointing out that the pro-Soviet ticket had attracted 35 per cent of the voters, Kennedy said "that means 35 per cent of the people owe allegiance to a foreign country."

"But now that the United States is committed to the plan (ERP), we must all pitch in and see that the best possible results are obtained with the first year's appropriations," he said.

Jewish Leader Urges All-Out Mobilization; U. N. Sets Up Palestine Truce Commission

British Urge Debate Be Replaced by Action To Bar Spread of War

Lake Success, April 23 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council set up a three-nation truce commission tonight to press once more for peace in Palestine.

It was given the specific task of supervising the Council's April 17 cease-fire order, which thus far has been ignored by Jews and Arabs.

The truce commission, proposed by the United States, will be composed of the consular representatives of the United States, France and Belgium in Jerusalem. It will thus be ready to begin work immediately in the Holy Land.

The Council vote was 8 to 0. Russia, Colombia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

Both Russia and the Soviet Ukraine attacked the move as a U. S. plan to wreck the Palestine partition project but Russia did not veto the commission proposal as she could have.

British Urge U. N. Action

The British earlier had urged the 58-member political committee of the special Palestine assembly to stop trying to find a final Palestine solution at present.

British Colonial Secretary Arthur

British Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech-Jones said the U. N. instead should concentrate now on action to avert the spread of civil war.

Creech-Jones supported a French proposal for emergency action to protect the holy places of Jerusalem. He also agreed that the U.

DAVID BEN-GURION
Asks Jews to Mobilize

Haganah Demands Surrender of Arabs Remaining in Haifa

Jerusalem, April 23 (AP).—David Ben-Gurion, premier-designate of the Jewish state, declared in a Passover broadcast tonight that Jews are buckling on the sword and called upon them to "mobilize all hidden resources of strength, will power, devotion and ability."

The Russian-born Ben-Gurion, who also has been designated war minister and commander in chief, spoke as thousands of Arabs streamed out of Haifa, Palestine's big port, in a self-imposed exodus following Jewish conquest of the city.

British army reports said the city was quiet after Haganah, the Jewish militia, stormed Arab strongholds and demanded the surrender of the remaining 2000 to 3000 armed Arabs. Sporadic firing still burst out, however, and British and Jewish armed guards escorted the Arab civilians as they quit the city.

(At Damascus, Syria, Syrian army officers said they had "stand-by" orders for a possible invasion of Palestine "after 10 days and not later than May 15."

Government Seeks Bill To Restore War Plants

200 Now for Sale Would Be Put Into Standby; Reserve Of Tools Also Asked

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The Administration proposed yesterday that some 200 Government-owned war plants which have been on the auction block be rehabilitated and placed in a proposed "national industrial reserve."

Legislation was sent to the Senate Armed Services Committee by the Munitions Board to preserve the plants along with hundreds of thousands of surplus machine tools. Officials said the original cost of both ran at least 2½ billion dollars and that they could not be replaced for that sum today.

Hearings Next Week

The move marks the culmination of months of Pentagon study on the surplus war property situation under some prodding from Capitol Hill. A House Armed Services subcommittee will open hearings on the plan next week.

"The need for this type is especially urgent at the present time and the National Military Establishment respectfully urges early and favorable consideration of the measure," said the Munitions Board.

Without it, said the board, "many of the plants will be lost, as some have already been lost."

Meanwhile, there were thses other defense developments on Capitol Hill:

1. The Senate War Investigating Committee urged that plans for wartime industrial mobilization be made now and that they provide for drafting every American to do "his proper part" in war.

2. A representative of the American Medical Association opposed the special draft for doctors and dentists in pending selective service bills. Testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, Dr. James C. Sargent declared the military forces took in far too many physicians during the war and must not be allowed to do so again.

3. Americans for Democratic Action urged Congress to put "an end to 'Jim Crow' in the armed forces. ADA backed selective service but opposed universal military training.

4. Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee announced that open hearings on the $3,198,000,000 plane procurement bill will start Monday. Approved 343 to 3 by the House a week ago, the measure carries 882 million dollars more than recommended by the Administration to start building a 70-group Air Force.

Bridges Repeats Stand

Defense Secretary James Forrestal—who is expected to be the first witness at the hearings—opposes the additional aircraft funds at this time. Bridges reiterated his sup-

CTC to Ask Transit Fare Increase Soon

Boost Sought Likely To Be Under 5 Cents; No Decision on Pass

Capital Transit Co., will ask the District Public Utilities Commission for a "reasonable" fare increase here, probably within "several weeks," CTC Vice President E. C. Giddings said last night.

As to when the request will be made and how large an increase will be sought, Giddings declared: "Honestly and accurately — we don't know."

Company officials are studying the effects of economies made after the company showed a $90,000 loss for 1947, he said. So far, these economies "have arrested that spiral" of losses "somewhat," but not enough to gain the company its authorized fair return, he revealed.

Profit Shown This Year

The fare boost to a flat 5 cents per 1½-mile zone, granted the company for its Maryland operations Thursday by the Maryland Public Service Commission, will not increase revenue enough to forestall the need for a District fare boost, he said.

During the first three months this year the company showed a net income of $112,000. During the same period last year a loss of $179,000 was recorded.

Company officials indicated during wage arbitration proceedings last October that it might be necessary to seek a 5-cent increase over the present 10-cent fare to cover higher pay granted employes.

"We've practiced economies to bring the need for a fare increase down as much as possible," Giddings said last night. This indicated the company will ask for less than a 15-cent fare.

No Decision on Pass

"Odd cent increases" have been granted recently in Detroit, which has a 13-cent fare, and Cincinnati, which has an 11-cent fare, according to transit officials.

Company officials said they had not decided whether to ask for any change in the price of weekly passes, which now sell for $1.50.

Some observers believed it likely the company may postpone its rate increase request until after June 30, when the present wage contract with employes expires. Salary increases last fall "ate up" much of the financial gain made by the company in the May fare increase, they pointed out.

Mystery Man Questioned in Reuther Case

Police Keep Witness In Secrecy; UAW Head Told Arm Will Heal

Detroit, April 23 (AP).—A mystery witness—a Mr. X—today entered the manhunt for the would-be killer of Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

He was brought to police headquarters in greatest secrecy in the midst of routine questioning of Reuther's political foes within the big union.

Meanwhile, Reuther received the welcome news that his right arm, nearly ripped from his body by a shotgun blast fired from outside his home Tuesday night, may be repaired.

Specialist Flies In

Dr. Barnes Woodhall, professor of neuro-surgery at Duke University, flew in today for a look at Reuther's mangled arm. He is an expert on wartime gunshot wounds. He talked it over with local doctors and issued the following statement:

"The handling of the case has been superb in the face of an injury which threatened the loss of the arm. His general condition continues good. Good progress has been made in the management of the bone injury. There is a nerve injury that is susceptible to correction during the future course of treatment."

Downtown, where police are conducting one of Detroit's greatest manhunts, Prosecutor James N. McNally refused to identify his mystery witness except to say that he was the father of six children and "respectable."

Gave "Valuable Information"

McNally said the tipster, whom he referred to as "Mr. X," gave some "valuable information."

According to the prosecutor, the witness told police he overheard Nelson Davis, an admitted Communist, state that he knew "who tried to kill Reuther."

Davis denied making any such statement. No charge was placed against him. He is a 52-year-old Ford Motor Co. foundry worker. McNally said he signed a statement admitting he was a Communist.

Davis was one of five former UAW-CIO officials questioned Thursday and today. No accusations were made against any of them. Police explained that they merely were asked to try to shed any possible light on Reuther's assailant.

Marshall Due Back Today From Bogota

Tells Parley Events Events at Home Compel His Return

Bogota, Colombia, April 23 (AP).—Secretary of State George C. Marshall was flying home tonight from the Pan-American Conference after telling fellow delegates important events demand his return.

Prospects for an early adjournment of the conference appeared bright as the delegates tackled the few remaining major items on the agenda.

Although the conference is likely to continue another week, Marshall explained he had stayed in Bogota longer than he had expected because "I felt due to the critical situation here it was necessary that I remain until the most fundamental issues were agreed upon."

Marshall wished the delegates of the other American republics and their people a "steady increase in their fortunes." He was vigorously applauded as he bid farewell in Spanish.

Due Here Early Today

Aides said he probably would stop briefly in Panama but is expected to arrive in Washington early Saturday. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Marshall S. Carter, a special assistant.

The conference took long strides toward winding up its sessions when resolutions on communism and colonialism finally were approved yesterday.

Working committees are trying to compose remaining differences over the drafting of a pact which will transform the Pan American system into a regional pact under the United Nations, the question of recognition of revolutionary governments in the hemisphere, and the peaceful arbitration of disputes.

Caracas Favored for '52 Parley

A special working group agreed on a series of principles to be followed by American nations as a means of promoting the growth of new industries. The group will report to the conference economic committee.

Delegates turned their attention to the selection of a site for the next conference expected to be held in 1952 or 1953. Most of the delegations appear to favor Caracas, Venezuela.

Palestine Held Reason For Marshall's Return

By John M. Hightower
By the Associated Press

Secretary of State Marshall's unexpected departure from the Bogota Conference was reported to be prompted by an accumulation of problems demanding his attention in Washington rather than by any particular crisis.

Perhaps the most urgent problem which might require early action by Marshall is the Palestine situation.

Fleet Sails for Haifa To Evaucate Arabs

Beirut, Lebanan, April 23 (U.P.).—Fishing smacks, schooners and sailing vessels set out for Haifa from Beirut and other Lebanese coastal towns today to evacuate Arabs.

It was a scene reminiscent of the British evacuation of Dunkerque. Boats of all sizes and descriptions dotted the Mediterranean on their way south.

Lebanese President Bisharah Al-Khuri went to Tyre to supervise erection of refugee camps.

Italy Likely To Be Invited Into Alliance

London, April 23 (AP).—Western Europe's economic-military alliance will set up shop here Saturday, and perhaps draw up papers for the admission of a new partner —Italy.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will address the delegations representing Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg at the first session of the alliance's central committee.

There appeared little doubt Italy will be invited even in the face of some opposition from Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The Benelux countries have suggested a decision should await a test on the stability of the new Italian government.

One of the central committee's first jobs will be the formation of a joint military committee to work out plans for mutual aid.

There has been speculation, thus far unconfirmed, that out of this committee will come an allied military staff headed by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial General Staff.

The central committee itself will study undisclosed results of investigations on the advisability of seeking a military pact with the United States.

While diplomats here regard such a request as certain, there have developed differences over the timing and procedure—largely stemming from the risk of raising a controversy in the U. S. Congress over the issue.

India to Try Man Accused Of Gandhi Murder

New Delhi, India, April 23 (U.P.). Secrecy surrounding the slayer of Mohandas K. Gandhi was lifted today for the first time since the Mahatma was assassinated 11 weeks ago.

Authoritative sources said Hindu fanatic Narayan Vinayak Godse will be tried next month.

Godse, editor of the anti-Gandhi Hindu newspaper Poona, will face the death penalty if convicted.

Government sources said an investigation revealed that the conspiracy was less sensational than first expected.

"I only want to say I am not at all sorry for what I've done," Godse was quoted as saying. "The rest I'll explain in court."

Vote May Hold DAR Congress Another Day

2 Vice President Ballots Fail to Secure Election

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

The Daughters of the American Revolution last night appeared to be headed for a sixth and unscheduled day of the fifty-seventh Continental Congress.

Voting yesterday failed to elect a vice president general and an honorary vice president general. Society regulations requires a simple majority of votes cast for vice president general, and a two-thirds majority for honorary vice president general.

Delegates were to vote again last night both before and after their annual banquet at the Mayflower Hotel. If they again failed to win a majority for the two offices in doubt, the Congress would be carried over until today.

5 of 7 Quit Race

The two ballots cast yesterday caused withdrawal from the vice president general race of five of the original seven candidates. Still in the field are Mrs. Claude K. Rowland of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Hugh L. Russell of Ashland, Ky., a dark horse who entered the contest late.

In the field for honorary vice presidents general are Mrs. Howard H. McCall, sr., Atlanta, Ga., and Francis Cushman Wilson, Santa Fe, N. Mex.

A lively discussion yesterday morning preceded the DAR delegates' adoption of a resolution urging Congress not to extend immigration over and above the present quota system, "either by special legislation, unused quotas or executive order."

Mrs. K. E. Mo of Minneapolis, Minn., told the DAR Congress, "I am very much in favor of allowing the homeless and suffering in Europe to come here, as long as we do not overwork our quotas." She asked that the resolution be defeated.

Favors Special Law

Mrs. George C. Vietheer, 518 N. Thomas st., Arlington, told delegates, "In this troubled world today the question of displaced persons is a potential source of great disturbance. I think we should continue all measures relating to security and educational requirements; however, I do feel that special legislation, carefully considered by the Congress of the

11 Feet Since 1880

Two-Inch Annual Earth Drift Noted in San Francisco Bay

By The Associated Press

Evidence that a section of the earth in the San Francisco Bay area has drifted approximately 11 feet since 1880—and may be continuing to do so at the rate of two inches a year—was reported yesterday by Dr. C. A. Whitten of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

In a report to the American Geophysical Union's twenty-ninth meeting, he said the evidence of "a continuous drift motion" was found along the famed San Andreas fault—a fracture in the earth's crust which scientists say was a contributroy cause of the disastrous earthquake of 1906.

This long-established fault runs roughly parallel with the California coast, in some places on land and in others under the sea.

(A "fault" is not a gaping open crack. The fracture may be very thin, so that later it may close; or it may widen and rock debris may fall into it, thus obscuring the relation of the two rock masses. Sometimes, one side of the fracture just slides down somewhat, so that the other side is raised. Other times, there is a lenghtwise movement of one side, like a board that has slid along atop another.)

Whitten reported the evidence indicates that the side of the fracture nearest the sea has been moving northward, rlative to the area on the east side of the fault.

It has not yet been determined how large a geographic area is involved.

The evidence was gathered from separate observations of established landmarks. The positions of these marks—consisting of scientific "monuments" set up at specific points—were noted in the years 1880, 1906, 1923 and 1947.

Swindle Profits Held Taxable By Circuit Court

New Orleans, April 23 (U.P.).—The Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that the United States Treasury is entitled to its cut in a swindle.

The case involved James A. Akers and an unnamed man who sold a wealthy Texas woman, Mrs. Dora Roberts, 82, maps to a buried "gold hoard" for $272,000. She happly dug up "gold" bars all over her ranch for four years, only to discover that they were brass.

Akers failed to file an income tax return and had to serve a penitentiary term and pay $2512.86 in taxes.

Akers sued to collect the $2512.86. He said the $272,200 was not a gain derived from capital or labor, and therefore was untaxable.

The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a District Court decision. It said the profit from an embezzlement is not taxable, but the profit from a swindle is.

Indonesia Requests End of Dutch Blockade

Dr. Ien Sik Tjoa, Indonesian delegate to the U. N. Security Council, last night asked State Department aid in lifting the Dutch blockade of Indonesia. He claimed it had "brought destitution to 70 million people."

"It must be remembered that 70 million people cannot be neglected in promoting world recovery without consequences to the cause of democracy," Tjoa said.

Great Tourist Attraction

German Art Exhibit to End At National Gallery Sunday

The German-owned art collection, one of Washington's greatest tourist attractions, will be removed from view at the National Gallery of Art Sunday night.

The announcement was made by the Department of the Army after a morning conference between a Senate Armed Services subcommitte and top Army officials at the Pentagon.

After the meeting, Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), subcommittee head, said a decision on whether the 202 paintings should be sent on tour in the United States for a year will depend on the reaction of German leaders.

Morse said he was optimistic that an arrangement could be made, but emphasized that "the German pictures must be returned to Germany immediately unless there is a clear showing that the German ministers are agreeable to some modified arrangement for showing them in this country."

He said the committee conferred with Gen. Lucius Clay, Military Governor of the American zone of Germany, by telecon (radio-operated teletype).

Senator Morse said that the general was asked to determine whether the Council of Minister Presidents in the American zone, consisting of the top elected officials in the states of Bavaria, Greater Hesse, Wurtemberg-Baden and Bremen, would approve of the Nation-wide showing here.

An official in the Department of the Army said the council maintains a secretariat at Stuttgart and is in constant session, indicating that a quick decision could be made.

Meanwhile, plans were being made for the crating of the valuable paintings, beginning Monday.

The exhibit was originally scheduled to close April 18, but was extended to Sunday night when Senators began discussions over returns of the collection.

House Due to Get Housing Bill May 24

Tobey Plans Probe in RCA 'Collusion'

By the Associated Press

Acting Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.) said yesterday the Senate Commerce Committee is launching an intensive investigation of the operations of the Radio Corporation of American.

He made the announcement as the committee wound up its hearings on a measure by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) to ban superpower standard radio stations.

Tobey said that the committee would conduct hearings on RCA next week, with definite dates to be announced later.

When reporters asked the reason for the inquiry, Tobey replied: "Collusion and the efforts of large interests to hamstring progress in radio circles."

Tobey touched off the inquiry yesterday by recalling Raymond Guy, NBC engineer, to the witness stand. With Guy on the stand, Tobey renewed his charges that RCA and the National Broadcasting Co., tried to "hamstring" frequency modulation. Emphatically, Guy denied the allegations.

Federal Project Feature Given Even Chance of Passage

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The long-range multi-billion dollar T-E-W housing bill is tentatively scheduled for House consideration the week of May 24, Senate proponents of the measure said yesterday.

Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.) of the House Banking and Currency Committee has set hearings on the Senate-passed measure for May 3. He predicted that "some sort of housing bill" will pass the House but declined to say whether or not he thought the committee would favor the Senate provision for public housing.

Another member of the committee, Representative Charles K. Fletcher (R., Calif.) told reporters:

"I think there is a 50-50 chance that public housing will pass. I am for welfare housing, to help people who are not able to take care of themselves. But I don't believe in subsidizing a special class in this country through public housing, at the expense of other taxpayers."

Welfare Rider Defeated

The Senate rejected, 45 to 39, an attempt by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, jr., (R., Wis.) to amend the substitute introduced by Senator Ralph Flanders (R., Vt.) by giving welfare families a priority in Government-subsidized housing. The amendment was fought by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) one of the authors of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

Chances of adoption of such an amendment by the House committee were regarded as good, but if the bill is reported out in such a form strenuous efforts will be made to amend it to conform to the Senate version when it reaches the House floor.

The Senate act provided for a 500,000-unit public housing program. Federal subsidies would amount to 160 million dollars annually by the fifth year.

Title VI Extension Favored

Senate supporters of the TEW measure said that because of the assurance the House would have a chance to act on the bill next month they were willing to go along with the House on another phase of the housing problem.

The House recently granted a month's extension to the title VI mortgage-insurance program of the Federal Housing Authority, which expires April 30, 1948.

The Senate failed to act on the extension because in the event of a block of the TEW bill on the House side, the Senate could substitute its own measure for the House-passed Title VI extension and thus force a House vote on the TEW measure.

Petition Deemed Needless

A spokesman for Flanders said yesterday the Senate planned to act next week to grant the month's extension of Title VI so long as the House planned action on the TEW bill.

Assurance of House action on the TEW measure apparently eliminates the further necessity of a petition to get the bill out of the committee, which pigeonholed a similar bill two years ago.

Representative Helen Ganagan Douglas (D., Calif.) had led a drive to force the bill to the floor by petition, an action requiring 218 signatures. There were approximately half that number of signatures already inscribed.

Westinghouse Cuts Industry Goods Prices

Pittsburgh, April 23 (UP).—Part of the electrical industry joined steel today in a price-slashing movement to beat inflation.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced price reductions on a wide range of electrical products which will save industrial customers about $3,125,000 annually.

The action came after U. S. Steel Corp. yesterday chopped prices by about $25,000,000 on many steel products.

The Nation received U. S. Steel's price-cutting plan with mixed opinion. A member of President Truman's Cabinet hailed the action as "very salutary," but union leaders and some smaller manufacturers were suspicious.

Westinghouse said reductions were made possible "through increased efficiency and improvements in manufacturing methods."

The firm reduced prices an average of 5 per cent in electrical equipment which controls and regulates the distribution of power.

The company listed affected items as circuit breakers, complete outdoor substations, metal-clad switchgear of all types, feeder voltage regulators, switches, distribution switchboards, lightning arresters and other protective equipment for transmission lines.

Negotiations between Westinghouse and the CIO United Electrical Workers for a "substantial" wage increase were recessed today to give the union an opportunity to "study the implications" of the price cuts.

Steel Union to Press For Wage Increase

Pittsburgh, April 23 (AP).—The CIO-United Steelworkers served notice today it will plug for pay boosts despite U. S. Steel Corp.'s avowed attempt to peg living costs by denying wage increases and cutting prices.

The big union's potent wage policy committee adopted a resolution renewing a "no strike" promise but calling on about 600 steel producing and fabricating companies to extend deadlines on current wage negotiations.

The U. S. Steel Corp., No. 1 steel producer and employer of 225,000, announced yesterday it had refused to grant the union's demand for "a substantial wage increase," but was cutting prices.

tain members of the Appropriations Committee can be seen in the almost unlimited time allotted to the power lobby witnesses as against the inadequate periods allowed witnesses fighting for TVA. Mr. Ken Whitaker, secretary of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, was allowed 10 minutes in which to make his testimony, while the power lobby witnesses were allowed 3 hours on the same day."

In an equally bitter statement to Washington State constituents, Representative Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) charged the utilities are saying to TVA: "This far you have gone—you shall go no further."

Said Jackson: "This issue transcends the question of public ownership of power. This is the question of public ownership of Government."

Pointing out that the TVA steam plant showdown, may set a precedent for California's Central Valley project, which has steam plant funds budgeted to implement Shasta Dam power, TVA advocates said they exptct to pick up more Western allies as the fight goes on.

NEW DISTRICT DAR OFFICER—Mrs. David L. Wells (left), of 4455 Q st. nw., installed yesterday as new DAR State Regent for the District of Columbia, is congratulated by Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman. Mrs. Clearman, of 3824 Warren st. nw., is Past State Regent

United States, should deal with the problem of displaced persons."

Mrs. Vietheer said she thought people were misinformed on the people who were migrating to the United States. "People think they are all Jews. Eighty per cent are Christians, and 20 per cent Jews," she said. She added that all churches have indicated they feel the DP problem should be dealt with.

Mrs. Cyrus Griffith Martin of Chattanooga, Tenn., declared, "I think we must realize that we have assimilated in the past about as many as we can, if we are to keep America as she is today. If we take in too many from other places, we will lower our standards and will not help the world. Many countries are crying for new citizens. If they do not want to stay in their homelands, there are many countries they could go to and help to build up."

Of the 16 resolutions adopted at yesterday morning's session, many were concerned with establishing budgets for DAR projects during the coming year. The delegates voted $4500 to its Junior American Citizens Committee; $18,000 for the DAR Manual for Citizenship, $12,000 for the press relations committee; $4300 for the committee maintenance fund; $25,000 for the pension and retirement fund; $18,730 for the Ellis Island-Angel Island committee; $25,000 for the Committee on National Defense and $12,000 for the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage.

Cargo Bars Urged

The group, by resolution, urged President Truman to "continue and to crystallize his policy of withholding shipment of war potential goods to Communist or Communist-dominated nations" and asked that "trade with those nations be limited to the minimum conducive to world peace."

DAR members in two other resolutions praised the public service rendered by the radio in keeping channels of world information and world communication free.

In a resolution dealing with upholding the loyalty oath, the society went on record as urging the President "and the agencies working under executive order to continue their efforts to eradicate alien and subversive influences from our public offices."

The group adopted changes in the existing pension plan of the society—which affects 40 permanent DAR employes. The changes had been recommended both by the DAR attorney and its actuary.

Mrs. Maurice Clark Turner, chairman of the Committee for the Correct Use of the Flag, secured approval of the DAR for her resolution that would give the United States flag preeminence over the United Nations flag within U. S. jurisdictions, as required in the flag code.

All States Represented

The credentials committee of the society told members yesterday that every State in the Union was represented at the Congress, as well as six outside chapters, including the Philippine Islands, France, China, England and Cuba.

The National Board of Management of the DAR is to meet this morning at 9 o'clock, when it is expected to discuss the building program approved by the Fifty-Seventh Continental Congress. Mrs. Rex Hays Rhoades, treasurer general, who steered the program through the congress, told reporters later that steel for the building planned to link existing Continental and Constitution Halls already has been ordered.

At yesterday's sessions, pledges in excess of $2500 toward the library of the new building were received from State chapters and individuals.

In the afternoon, delegates went to the White House, where they were received by Mrs. Truman. They then returned to Constitution Hall to hear the tellers report "no election" again.

The Gallup Poll

It's Farmers vs. City Folks In Daylight Time Dispute

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., April 23.—Last week the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee held hearings on two bills concerned with time. One would adopt summer daylight saving time throughout the country. The other would return the Nation to an unchangeable standard for each of the four time zones in the country.

How do the Nation's voters line up on these proposals? The American Institute of Public Opinion has just completed a new survey on this "spring perennial issue."

The results show:

1. If the question were put to the Nation a majority of voters today would favor daylight saving time in the summer, about one in six voters would vote for year-round daylight saving time.

2. As in past years, it is the Nation's farmers who overwhelmingly support the proposal to do away with daylight saving which still remains the delight of most city folks.

3. Most voters in areas which had daylight saving time last year want to keep it while people in sections which had standard time through 1947 are just as strongly in favor of that way of running their clocks.

Reactions throughout the country were tested by this question:

Which of the following would you prefer: (a) have standard time the whole year, including summer; (b) have daylight saving time in summer and standard time the rest of the year, or (c) have daylight saving time the year round?

Here is how the Nation voted:

S.T.	42%
D.S.T.	52
No opinion	6

The following table contrasts the views of farmers with those of voters in different sized communities:

	S.T.	D.S.T.	opin.
Farmers	71%	24%	5%
Under 10,000	49	46	5
10,000-100,000	38	57	5
100,000-500,000	39	56	5
Over 500,000	24	69	7
People in areas having no D.S.T. last year	57%	37%	6%
People in areas having D.S.T. last year	28	68	4

Witnesses before the Senate hearings, no matter which settlement of the time question they favored, joined hands in emphasizing the confusion caused by the present system under which some areas adopt daylight saving time and others do not.

Meat Strike Spreads After Police Attack

Kansas City, Kans., April 23 (AP). Police, ordered to stop mass picketing in the paskinghouse strike here, wrecked a CIO hall today in a 10-minute skull-cracking charge which sent 10 persons to hospitals.

Following the bloody police attack on strikers at the strikebound Cudahy Packing Co. plant, a temporary restraining order was issued against illegal picketing there.

The District Court actios came as officials of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) ordered their members to cease work at eight other plants, previously unaffected.

70 Policemen Rush Hall

Seventy policemen, the entire Kansas City, Kans., force, rushed the union hall near the plant a few minutes after they had cleared the streets of pickets.

They rushed the hall after Police Capt. Eli Dahlin had attempted to tell the strikers over a safety car loudspeaker that the police were "sot going to take any more cuff" in the 39-day-old strike at Cudahy, Wilson & Co., and Armour & Co.

Ralph M. Kaker, district director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, said the police were guilty of "common brutality" and ordered union members at the eight smaller packing plants to walk out. Baker said 100 other persons were injured, but none seriously enough to be hospitalized.

Police arrived at the scene with orders from Dahlin that "we have played with this thing long enough." Numerous flareups have occurred at Cudahy since the strike began.

Two Women Hurt

Before the clash Dahlin had called in the entire police force and told them:

"You are to crack skulls if they ask for it, no matter who they are. That means strike leaders and all, even a member of the city's legal staff if he interferes."

Dahlin's reference apparently was to James H. Barnes, assistant city attorney who also represents the unions and who has had several arguments with the police at the picket line.

In a matter of minutes after police arrived the hall was empty. Broken glass littered the floor. Some union members jumped through windows to escape club-swining policemen. Blood was spattered on walls and floor.

Two women were among the 10 persons treated at hospitals.

Photographer Injured

Newspaper photographers reported they were shoved back with the strikers as they attempted to take pictures. One of the cameramen was injured and treated at a hospital.

Baker, who said he was not at the scene, declared the attack was made without warning.

"The police began to belabor everyone in sight not in uniform, shouting 'Go back to work and get off the streets.' . . . No one but police were left on the scene. Even restaurants and all business places within a two-block aera were entered by police and everybody except employes, driven out."

As the strike front widened, Wilson & Co. at Chicago asked the Government to abandon its efforts to stimulate further talks in the strike.

In a telegram to the Labor Department's mediation head, the packing company said a series of meetings in Washington "would only prolong the strike. . . ."

Tokyo Firm Offers Handy Burglar Aids

Tokyo, April 23 (UP).—A Tokyo firm has gone into the "shoot him yourself" business, an underworld source said today.

The firm rents out pistols for 10,000 yen per night in the same manner as the "drive yourself" automobile business, he said.

It was reported the firm also conducts "guided tours" of the most likely houses for burglary. An inventory of what valuables thieves can expect to find is also included with this service.

Maybe 700 Years

World Unity Is Far Off, Toynbee Says

A unified world is impossible now, although within 700 years people may understand each other's ways well enough to accomplish it, Arnold J. Toynbee, famous British historian, said yesterday.

Toynbee

Speaking at a luncheon for educators and the press, Toynbee said nations are not necessarily perverse, but rather do not know each others' citizens adequately.

At present, the two great powers in the world are the United States and Russia. Although they are far apart in their philosophies, was between them is not inevitable, he declared. He predicted nations on both sides would have to give up something in order to reach an understanding.

New Book Coming Out

Toynbee, who has achieved fame as an educator, diplomat, correspondent, anthologist and lecturer, as well as historian, is now engaged in completing the last three volumes of his magnum opus, "A Study of History," a project he began in 1922.

On Thursday, his book, "Civilization on Trial," published by the Oxford University Press, will be issued. Then he will resume work on his historical series at the American Institute of Advanced Studies, Princeton, N. J.

The slim, pale-faced author placed the major responsibility for peaceful unificatoin of the world on the United States. He said that although this country is relatively intexperienced at world leadership, it should be firmer in its actions.

He said the man who pays the piper should call the tune, and, at present, America was undoubtedly doing the paying.

The recent Italian elections purchased time for America to go on with a campaign to sell democracy to the world. He said it was up to this country to guide the nations she is now helping toward better governments and living standards.

The historian said world technocracy has progressed faster than its politics. People of the world have been brought closer together by fast communications and travel and political advancements must match such achievements.

Toynbee was introduced by Henry Z. Walck, vice president of the xford University Press.

Russia Removes $4,490,910 Gold From U. S. in April

Russia has pulled some Soviet-owned gold out of this country. It is the first such withdrawal since the prewar period.

The Commerce Department said yesterday the Russians moved out $4,490,910 worth during the first week in April. They still have some 70 million dollars worth here.

Simultaneously, Soviet satellite Yugoslavia pulled out $63,115 worth of gold. Yugoslavia already had taken out $104,500 worth in March.

Although the United States honored requests from these countries to license the withdrawals, it received no explanation of the reason.

The withdrawal indicated a reversal of Russia's policy of building up its gold and dollar deposits in this country.

Germans to Get Beer By Using Bread Ration

Frankfurt, Germany, April 23 (UP).—Anglo-American authorities told the Germans today they could have more beer if they eat less bread.

Answering an appeal by thirsty Germans to end prohibition in Bizonia, Allied military authorities decided that Germans may surrender 1.1 pound bread ration coupons for 14.1 quarts of beer.

Beer brewing in Germany, except for export, stopped early in 1946. Germans watered down the supply and made it last two years. Now even the watered-down supply is running low.

Almond Lacks Probe Power

Richmond, Va., April 23 (AP).—Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr., held today that he has no authority to investigate Richmond Newspapers Inc. in accordance with the "Swanson resolution" of the House of Delegates.

In a letter to E. Griffith Dodson, clerk of the House, Almond said a study of the resolution itself, and of laws covering the authority of the Attorney General, had convinced him that his office had no authority to comply with the directive.

Almond's ruling killed all possible proceedings under the resolution.

Earlier this month, the State Corporation Commission held that it lacked authority to proceed with an investigation of the newspapers.

Sponsored by Delegate Sam Swanson, of Pittsylvania County, the resolution directed the SCC to investigate the profits and salaries of the papers, and instructed the Attorney General to investigate the papers' "practices and policies" to determine if Richmond Newspapers, Inc., was in violation of monopoly laws.

The Swanson resolution was the outgrowth of editorial criticism of some of the legislators for adoption of a $300 per member bonus in the House of Delegates and for their action on other measures.

Dutra Asks For Curb on Brazil Reds

Rio de Janeiro, April 23 (AP).—President Eurico Gaspar Dutra asked the Brazilian Congress today for special powers to combat communism. He justified his appeal by referring to recent disasters which have been attributed to Communists.

The government now is "legally unarmed" for the fight against subversive elements, the President said.

Dutra asked laws, administered by military courts, covering crimes against the external security of the country or its military institutions. He also asked legislation to fight crimes against internal security and to insure the loyalty of military and civilian employes of the government.

Dutra sad the requested legislation would be enforced under terms of Brazil's 1946 constitution which guarantees civil rights.

Brazil has outlawed the Communist Party, expelled party members from all legislative bodies and broken relations with Russia. Authorities contend that Communist sabotage has greatly increased since the party went underground last May.

Troops guarded vital areas in Porto Alegre today after police arrested 73 Communists as saboteurs. Police claimed they captured documents which prove the Communists were responsible for a recent coal mine explosion near here and subversive activities in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo in connection with a May Day revolt plan.

Korean Island Riot Deaths Reach 46

Seoul, Korea, April 23 (U.P.)—Communist rioting today on Cheju Island off Korea's southern coast has created a "serious situation," authorities reported.

A battalion of Korean constabulary has been rushed to Cheju to reinforce the hard-pressed garrison.

Reports from Cheju said communication lines onthe island have been cut. Communists reportedly were distributing handbills urging the constabulary and rightists to desert to the Communist cause.

A United States Army spokesman said at least 46 persons have been killed since the outbreaks began April 2.

A small American Army unit is stationed on Cheju. It reported Communist activity seemed to be increasing.

The official radio in Pyongyang, capital of Soviet-occupied north Korea, announced that the Russian-sponsored north Korean government would meet Wednesday to discuss a constitution for all Koera, including the American-occupied south.

Hoffman Predicts ECA Will Add Little to Inflation

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

W. Averell Harriman's appointment as "roving ambassador" to handle the overseas administration of the Economic Cooperation Administration, was unanimously approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday.

The quick action was due to the committee's knowledge of Harriman—he had been before it several times in recent years for appointment to various posts. The Senate is expected to act early next week so that the work of ECA may proceed rapidly.

Earlier Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of ECA, had termed Harriman "almost the indispensable man" in the ECA setup.

Hoffman and two chief aides predicted the ECA program would add little if any to present inflationary pressures in the United States. Dr. Dennis A. FitzGerald, ECA food director, explained that grain shipments under the program would be probably 100 million bushels less next year (beginning July 1) than this. He estimated the total would be 475 million bushels compared with 556 so far provided this year and 575 a year ago.

Statement Helps Wheat Prices

On the Chicago Board of Trade FitzGerald's statement halted a two-day drop in wheat prices that had sent prices down more than 10 cents a bushel. A sharp rally followed, as previous estimates for next year's grain exports were only 400 million bushels.

FitzGerald also said that ECA contemplates scrutinizing purchases of supplies by recipients of ECA assistance from other countries to prevent "excess prices." Among such problems, the question of prices for Argentine wheat, flaxseed, etc., was discussed.

Richard Bissell, special consultant to Hoffman, had the same comment about the effect of ECA purchases upon domestic prices as FitzGerald—as far as steel, machinery and other nonfood items were concerned.

"Total exports will almost certainly be less than they have been in the last year," Bissell said. "Therefore the upward pressure on prices will be less. That does not mean that there may not be an uprush of domestic demand for the same commodities which might have an inflationary impact on prices."

To Use Commercial Channels

Both men emphasized that the aim of ECA will be to turn as much of the buying operations over to commercial channels as possible. FitzGerald said cotton will be exported through commercial channels instead of through the Commodity Credit Corp., and that a decision as to grain may be made soon.

In the same respect, he said, efforts will be made to have the foreign purchasing revert to private operators isstead of being done by Government agencies as at present, as soon as possible.

Operations of such private agencies, however, he pointed out, will be carefully scrutinized. He warned that ECA and the Commerce Department may have to "deny licenses where there are evidences of excess profits."

Woman to Be Included

Hoffman predicted an early selection of the public advisory committee called for in the act. It will represent "all the people," he said. He plans, he added, to have "at least one woman on it."

Although no deputy has yet been named, Hoffman said two assistants, M. T. Moore and James M. Clary "are carrying out the functions of deputy at very low pay"—which he said he thought was "$10 a day."

So far the local staff numbers 112 persons. Hoffman said he has 17,000 applications on file with many thousands more held up "through the kindness of Senators and Congressmen."

War Plant Reserve Asked

port for the 70-group plan yesterday.

5. Submission of cost estimates and official recommendations on a plan of the Senate Armed Services Committee to "marry" the draft and UMT was postponed until next week when the group canceled a scheduled meeting. The plan contemplates training 18-year-old UMT youths simultaneously and in the same camps with older two-year draftees.

Forrestal, however, wrote the committee yesterday indorsing the "bargain-counter" plan — which would save large sums required for separate camps and trainers. He said he thought the scheme—aimed at providing trained reserves quickly—could be worked out without large additional sums.

But he declared the complete, long-range UMT will be necessary eventually, to enable the Nation to "reduce our regular forces to a level which may no longer require selective service."

6. A country preacher from Huntington, Ind., charged that American Legion leaders are pushing for the draft and UMT without the support of their members. E. Paul Weaver told the House Armed Services Committee that the Legion has not polled its membership on the question since 1919.

Two Groups of Plants

The move to rehabilitate Government-owned war plants and keep them in an "inactive standby condition" followed an order from President Truman "freezing" War Assets Administration sales for one month.

Involved are two groups of factories. One includes some 115 larger plants which the armed forces have certified can only be sold or leased under a "security clause." This requires that a plant be kept in condition so it could be restored to munitions production within four months.

Thirty of these are now under "security leases," 23 are still producing military equipment and 62 have been certified to WAA for sale or lease. Deputy Director S. W. Cramer, jr., of the Munitions Board, estimated that 28 of the latter cannot be so disposed of with a security clause. Their original cost totaled $745,750,000.

Listings Reexamined.

In addition, said Cramer, there are many plants on the WAA sales list which have been listed for sale or lease without a security clause string. Administration officials now are reexamining these plants and may place such a string on 150 to 200 of them, he stated.

"If this legislation is not enacted," said Cramer, "all the plants not already sold subject to a security clause, may have to be sold in whole or in part for whatever peacetime use the buyer can make of them and the result may be cannibalization beyond the possibility of reactivation."

Without adequate caretakering since the end of the war, many of the plants are in bad shape. The plan contemplates rehabilitating those which cannot be leased or sol dwith a security clause and then keeping them in a standby condition. They would not be modernized.

The Federal Works Administration would maintain the "national industrial reserve" thus created.

Tools Face Scrapping

Also involved are large numbers of machine tools and industrial equipment. Cramer said 192,000 o fsome two million machine tools procured by the Government during the war were placed in Army, Navy and Air Force reserve stocks. The rest were turned over to WAA for sale.

Legal authority to put more of this equipment into war reserves expired last February and now the Government wants to keep them. Without new legislation, the 200-million-dollar worth of tools will be sold for scrap, it was said.

The new bill provides for an annual review of the plants and equipment by an advisory board of industrialists to determine what should be kept and what sold.

The Senate War Investigating Committee proposal for "universal service" and immediate industrial planning for war came in a report on industrial mobilization in World War II.

Profits Angle Seen

Warning that America may "at once become not only an arsenal but also a battlefield," the report declared that it is vital to plan now for conversion of industry from peace to war.

Congress should insist that administrative officials immediately formulate an industrial mobilizatios plan, said the committee. Then it should be written into legislation which could be put into effect quickly if war comes.

Such a law should provide for taking "unfair profits out of war and preparation for war," said the committee.

Joseph L. Rauh, jr., former deputy housing administrato r, appeared for ADA in testifying on the draft bill. He told the House Armed Services Committee that "the strength we gain by restoring selective service will be seriously impaired" unless Congress abolishes racial discriminatoin in the armed forces.

Rauh sharply criticized Henry Wallace's opposition to the preparedness legislation. He described Wallace as "the presidential aspirant who seems willing to hand the world over to Russia and who wants to defend America b- ing on the reserve forces who did it last time."

Plea For Doctors

In opposing the special draft of doctors over 25 years old, Dr. Sargent said the "one great challenge" before Congress and the emdical profession today is making provision for the care of civilian casualties in another war.

"To give the military establishment carte blanc as this bill proposes to do would surely lead to the same over-procurement of medical personnel as before," he said.

"And if another war is to come—biologic and atomic warfare this time—large disaster areas with terrible civilian casualties must be expected and must be adequately provided for if the Nation is to survive."

She and Rockefeller were married February 14 at Palm Beach, Fla., and are now at their Park Avenue home.

U. N. Truce Board Set Up

N. should study the trusteeship plan advocated by the United States.

The French measure has first priority when committee debate is resumed Monday.

The council adjourned at 7:12 p. m. (EST) without setting a date for the next meeting.

An Arab country spokesman, Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, made a plea for conciliation. He said he was prepared to consider the trusteeship proposal if it "means an orderly transition from the mandate to a unitary (Arab majority) Palestine."

A Jewish Agency official declared at a news conference that it was too late for the UN to put the proposed trusteeship plan into effect. The official was Michael Comay, press official for the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem. He arrived here from Palestine by air yesterday.

Comay said British rule in Palestine has ceased to exist and that partition already is a reality. The only way for the Arabs to prevent the establishment of a Jewish government, he said, is to get help from the regular armies of the neighboring Arab countries.

Creech-Jones told the political committee the time is too short to hope for a permanent solution between now and May 15, when the British plan to terminate their mandate rule.

In view of this, he said, the Assembly should "use all the practical means at its disposal to prevent developments in Palestine from endangering the peace of the world without seeking at this time to arrive at a final solution."

Creech-Jones promised Britain would cooperate in these stopgap measures, subject to the limitations involved in the decision to end the mandate May 15 and to complete British troop withdrawal by August 1.

A British spokesman refused to say whether this means Britain was prepared to use her troops to help carry out U. N. measures.

Jewish Chief Asks Total War

with Ahmed Bey Sharabati, Syria's minister of defense.)

Jewish authorities said they had made themselves responsible for the protection of Arab property in Haifa.

[The New York Herald Tribune reported that Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, British high comcissioned of Palestine in a telegram to the British government, said "the jewish attack at Haifa was a direct consequence of continous attacks by Arabs on Jews in Haifa over the previous four days."

[Estimates of casualties varied greatly, but Sir Alan insisted there had ben no mass slaughter of civilians. He placed jewish losses at 14 killed alnd 40 wounded and known Arab military casualties at 100 kgilled and 100 wounded.]

The British continued to occupy the immediate port area, a headquarters district and a slender residential belt linking the two. But the Arab evacuation left the Jews is control of all the rest of the city. In the port area are important refineries and oil installations. Whether the victory would permit the Jews to control distribution of gasoline—vital to both Arab and Jewish armies—was not clear. Normally the Haifa refineries supply about 90 per cent of the requirements of nearby Arab countries.

Haganah sources said the Jewish attacking force was only about 500.

A Jewish spokesman announced today that six Jewish councilmen will take over in the place of a former British-headed commission in the Jewish sector of Jerusalem.

A 20-mile triangle on the northwestern edge of Jerusalem was the scene of today's bitterest fighting. Haganah said two Arab villages, Beit Iska and Shufat, both of which figured in Arab plans to control the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway, were captured.

Police at Ramaleh reported, however, that the Jewish attack, supported by armored cars, was repulsed, with Jewish casualties believed totaling more than 100. Police said Arab casualties were at least 6 dead. The Arabs were said to have captured three of the armored cars.

Police confirmed Arab reports of heavy fighting in a third nearby village, near Samuel, which is marked by a tall spire at the presumed site of the tomb of the Prophet Samuel.

The Holy Land's 700,000 Jews began at sunset their 3388-year-old festival of Passover. As they did so Ben-Curion in a broadcast over Haganah transmitters in Jerusalem, Haifa, Tel Aviv and Galilee lem, Haifa, Tel Aviv and Galilee announced the "liberation" of Haifa and Tiberias.

"We have just begun to buckle on the sword and will not unbuckle it," he said.

"The path before us is still difficult and dangerous. The profound satisaction which every Jew in the world will experience on hearing of the conquests and successes of our defense army cannot blind us to the grim aspects, military and political, which confront us in the near future on the part of our open and secret enemies."

Carriers Sail for Norway

Gibraltar, April 23 (U.P.).—The United States aircraft carriers Valley Forge and Rendova, escorted by three destroyers, sailed today for Norway on their round-the-world "good will" cruise.

Norway Has No War Scare, Envoy Asserts Upon Return

There's no war scare in Norway and "no sense of panic at all," Ambassador Wilhelm Muenthe de Morgenstierne told reporters yesterday.

The Ambassador returned to Washington Thursday after a two weeks' visit to his home capital. He said recent rumors of imminent aggression against Norway "did not seem to be substantiated."

"I found no fear of war," he reported, "—just a determination to be ready for any emergency. The Norwegian people learned a lesson in 1940 and do not intend to be caught again, even though they do not expect a war."

He said Norway had asked for no arms from the United States, had not discussed a military alliance with anyone, but had made plain its readiness "to stand up to fight if we should be attacked from any quarter." The Norwegian Parliament recently voted 100 million kroner for defense.

The Ambassador said his government had made no complaint about the tentative allocation of 32 million dollars to Norway for the first year of the European Recovery Program. It was all very tentative, he thought, and could be discussed during negotiations for a bilateral ERP agreement with the United States.

The Ambassador had a long talk with Acting Secretary of State Lovett yesterday, but declined to say what was discussed.

Soviet Air Corridor Move Is Due Soon

General Forecasts Enforcement Steps; Britain to Resist Any 'Infringement'

Berlin, April 23 (AP).—Soviet Air Force General Alexandrov declared his belief today that Russia very soon will attempt to enforce measures for the "safety of Soviet planes" in the American, British and French air corridors to Berlin.

A British spokesman at once declared the British would resist any Russian infringement on the air corridors.

A few days ago an American spokesman said "if the Russians try to enact unilaterally their proposals for air corridor traffic, I think they will find them pretty hard to enforce."

Expects Sokolovsky to Act

Alexandrov told a news conference he thought Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor, would take the step, however.

Alexandrov headed a Soviet commission that investigated the collision between a British transport and Soviet fighter in which 15 persons were killed at Berlin April 5. The commission recommended that the Western powers be prohibited from flying planes in the corridors except on 24 hours' notice.

[The United Press said Alexandrov accused the British of tampering with the Soviet plane so it would appear the Russians were to blame for the crash.]

Soviet Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov made a long attack in the Allied Kommandantur today, against the British, French and Americans, ending up with the statement that unruly American soldiers went about the city biting elderly German women. The statement brought loud shouts of laughter from the Western representatives.

The laughter brought a blush to the cheek of Kotikov, who made the declaration in vetoing an American proposal to make a four-power investigation of kidnapings in Berlin.

The white-haired Kotikov said the American sector was a "cesspool" of crime. When he had finished, Col. Frank L. Howley, United States commandant, commented, "Americans do not bite."

A British announcement tonight said no restrictions for air traffic over the British-American zones have been introduced. The statement was in answer to a Moscow broadcast today.

The Soviet-controlled press announced that organization of a new political party was under way in the eastern zone. It will take in thousands of rank and file members of the former Nazi Party. The first outline of its program listed a non-Marxist plank—"Recognition and safeguarding of private property acquired through honorable work."

Many Americans Quit Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, April 23 (U.P.).—Hundreds of American women and children are leaving Germany and more hundreds want to get out as soon as possible, official records showed today.

A United States Air Force survey of its 2800 occupation families showed that more than 1500 want to go back to the United States now. Last April 19, Air Force headquarters offered to move them at Government expense.

Since that date, 104 persons have been flown out and 72 other families have packed up and are waiting for plane space. Some of the first plane-loads headed home on less than 24 hours notice—at the height of tension caused by new travel restrictions imposed by the Russians in Berlin.

The Air Force offer to transport dependents is patterned after one made to Berlin's American residents April 3 by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in chief.

Clay said the Government would pay the fare for wives and children anytime they wanted to leave.

Latest reports from Berlin show more than 60 families took advantage of the offer.

Thomas Demands Report on Condon

'New Punishment'

Durr Blasts At Federal Loyalty Test

Clifford J. Durr, retiring Federal Communications Commissioner, last night bitterly denounced the President's loyalty check program among Federal employes.

He also rebuked the House Committee on Un-American Activities for its procedure in the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards.

"New standards of Americanism are being laid down and new forms of punishment devised for their enforcement," Durr told the American Acoustical Society dinner meeting at the Statler Hotel.

'Strange New Courts'

"Our Congress, our executive department, and our military establishments are vying with each other in the establishment of strange new courts unknown to our constitution to try men for offenses unknown to our laws."

The loyalty program, he said, amounts to the Nation's "adopting a scorched earth policy with respect to our democratic institutions in our fear that they may be taken from us by an alien force."

Durr said the loyalty program was causing "the very men whose ability integrity and scientific skills are essential to our basic security" to shun Government service rather than risk irresponsible attacks on their reputations.

The program, he said, gives the FBI dictatorial powers over employment policies and impairs the morale of Federal workers.

"By giving official acceptance to rumor and protection to informers," he said, the probes "place in the hands of our enemies effective weapons of psychological warfare to be used against us."

"Sentence Pronounced"

Defending Condon, whom the House Un-American Activities Committee charged was one of "the weakest links in atomic security," Durr said:

"Sentence has been pronounced publicly upon his reputation. Now that he has been convicted, the committee has indicated it may extend to him the privilege of saying a few words in his own defense."

"It may or may not, such a course being deemed wholly unessential to its peculiar conception of Americanism."

Durr's fight, said Durr, "is the fight of all us who believe that our democratic traditions and heritages are worthwhile."

Durr does not wish reappointment to the FCC, President Truman announced Thursday. His seven-year term expires June 30. His wife has accepted the northern Virginia chairmanship for Henry A. Wallace's campaign for President.

Threatens 'Tough' Action Unless File Is Surrendered

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas of the House Un-American Activities Committee yesterday threatened a "get tough" policy unless the Administration delivered to him an FBI loyalty report on Dr. E. U. Condon.

It was the answer to a challenge issued the day before by the President. The House passed a resolution "directing" that the Condon file be turned over to it. Mr. Truman answered by an implicit "try and get it."

Yesterday Thomas told reporters that unless the report was turned over in 48 hours, "We are going to be tough in this matter. There is going to be a showdown."

But he did not specify how. The House resolution has no binding effect. And on the other hand, Mr. Truman issued a directive—which is binding at least on the executive branch of the Government—that loyalty data be divulged without his permission.

Former Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who had possession of the FBI report, refused to turn it over to Thomas' committee, even when a subpoena was issued for it. Mr. Truman backed him up.

The new Secretary of Commerce, Charles Sawyer, refused to comment on the Condon case.

Condon is director of the National Bureau of Standards, under the Commerce Department. The Thomas Committee charged in a report last month that he was "one of the weakest links" in American atomic security, and that he associated with Russian espionage agents.

It based its charge on part of an FBI report on Condon which its investigators had seen. The committee now wants to get the complete report.

Greek Troops Attack Rebels

Lamia, Greece, April 23 (AP).—Three Greek divisions have pushed 25 miles into steep mountain country of south central Greece and penetrated leftist guerilla strongholds on four strategic peaks, it was disclosed today.

Lieut. Gen. Stylianos Kitrilakis, deputy chief of staff, gave reporters the first official account of the nine-day spring offensive in this area 90 miles northwest of Athens where about 250 leftists are fighting against entrapment.

Kitrilakis said army units were attacking and pursuing small bands in the mountains and that 56 were killed and 26 captured. Army losses were given as 7 killed.

Forty-eight guerillas were reported killed and 17 captured when a band of 300 attacked about 40 miles north of the main operations area.

King Paul has been touring the area in his own car which he drives.

One on the Aisle—

'Fugitive' Aims High, and Misses

By Richard L. Coe

BECAUSE IT STRIVES for something infinitely superior to the average film, "The Fugitive," at the Metropolitan, is a distinguished picture. It also is a distinguished disappointment.

There are so many splendid details to "The Fugitive" that one cannot avoid considering the infinte complexity of making a film. A film is composed of so vast a number of parts. Not only are there story and acting, there are sight and sound. The more detailed a canvas the director chooses to include, the more pitfalls lie in his path.

"The Fugitive" has been directed by John Ford from a screen play Dudley Nichols has adapted from Graham Greene's novel, "The Labyrinthine Ways." Working together and apart, Ford and Nichols have given us such superior films as "The Grapes of Wrath," "Stagecoach," "The Long Voyage Home" and "How Green Was My Valley." Their present effort can't fail to have some facets which will stimulate the perceptive filmgoer.

It is their very fascination with sight and sound that has kept them from their full purpose. Ford's camera lingers too broodingly on the mountains of Mexico, on faces, on shadows and on fine detail. Yet these very faults have a paradoxical virtue; they are beautiful, striking and memorable.

Too, Ford has merged sight and sound with an inventiveness that is refreshing. For much of the film there is remarkably little conversation; much is made of the motion pictures' fundamentally pantomime nature. Ford has used the soundtrack brilliantly. He works up a tremendous excitement through the beat of horses' hooves; at one point the whimpering of a baby adds excitement to a scene. The background music is by the able Richard Hageman; sometimes it is too overpowering, but it is music which plays a vital role in Ford's entire scheme.

Novel's Point Muffed

The story concerns the faith of a priest in "a Central American country" whose government has so persecuted religion that the Fugitive is the only priest left. How he has the chance to flee, but turns it down—most reluctantly—when his duty calls him to a dying woman, and how he ultimately crosses the border to sanctuary only to return to certain death, forms the action.

Graham Greene's novel, "The Labyrinthine Ways," the basis of the film, was less of a surface study than this. Greene's Mexican priest had been a "bad" priest; his martyrdom was strong because of the battle within him to triumph after his loose living.

"The Fugitive" which Henry Fonda is playing has no such worldly turmoil. When he says, "I haven't been a good priest," it is a remark of humility, not repentance. This fundamental difference weakens what might have been a forceful conversion and allows no reasoning as to why the religious persecution has broken out. With such a shift, the picture is built on a weak foundation.

"The Fugitive," then, has become a story of religious faith, a simple refinement of a complex emotion. As such, however, it is a far finer film than "The Keys of the Kingdom" and "Song of Bernadette." But it is not the story of a divided soul which it was in Greene's inspiration.

The Villainy of Ignorance

For all that, however, the story is now a tirade against religious intolerance, just as "Crossfire" and "Gentleman's Agreement" were pitted against anti-Semitism. It is a vigorous indictment of authoritarian rule. Its chief villain—as was the villain of "Treasure of Sierra Madre"—is ignorance and the blight it casts on the world through its inherent sin of greed. The ignorant peon played by J. Carrol Naish, shadowing the Fugitive and threatening to turn him in for a reward, is the embodiment of ignorance, the ignorance which curses the world with its greed, distrust and hatred.

That such a film does not come off—that, for instance, there is considered need for a subtitle to the final portion of the story—is the result of setting higher sights than its makers have either the courage or the strength to achieve. It would have taken courage (and conceivably brought disaster) to employ the full point of Greene's story. And it would have taken great strength to keep from lingering over the details of beauty which have so beguiled Ford's expressive cameras.

TODAY: Donald O'Connor, star of the Capitol's film, "Are You With It?" makes a single personal appearance at the 12:15 show. . . . Could be he might even walk up a wall for you. . . . More on the youthful O'Connor in Monday's column.

Repeat Performance

G. W. Players Revive a Fine Folk Play, 'Dark of the Moon'

GEORGE Washington University's revivified drama group is striking its soundest note yet in its production of "Dark of the Moon," which will be repeated tonight at 8:30 in Lisner Audtorium.

Your reporter missed this near-hit of the 1944-45 season, but he heard echoes of the folk play's effects. There were few half-way reactions. People liked it or they didn't. The Shuberts' production was deplored by that critical historian, George Jean Nathan, and it's quite likely this aspect of its professional life made it some enemies.

For all that, "Dark of the Moon" seems to me fascinating theater, a folk play genuinely American, earthy, vivid, colorful, bursting with the warmth of mountain life and the excitements of religious superstition. That's a tall order for any play, but those are the qualities of "Dark of the Moon."

From "Barbara Allen" Ballad

It's an ideal play, too, for a college group and the G.W. Players are giving it an able, smooth and ambitious performance. The truly striking feature of their production is that a year ago you wouldn't have found anything like it on the Lisner stage. The university's cooperation with its speech department and drama division is paying off encouragnig fruit.

Howard Richardson and William Berney wrote this play for production at the University of Iowa. They went to the Great Smoky Mountains for their history—the ballad of "Barbara Allen." Their hero is a Witch Boy who yearns for the human Barbara. He makes a bargain with a Conjur woman that in exchange for being made human, his Barbara must remain faithful to him for a year. If she does not, he again become a Witch Boy and she must die.

How his bargain is lost through the superstitutions of the religious mountain Baptists is the story of "Dark of the Moon." The authors have created the earthy humor of the mountain folk effectively and the authors have seen to it their original ending has been restored. This finds the boy once again a Witch Boy, looking curiously at the body of his dead Barbara, wondering who on earth can THAT be. In the production the National saw, this was totally lost by having him sigh, "Ah, Barbara, if only you had not been human."

"DARK OF THE MOON." G.W.U. Players present the folkplay in two acts by Howard Richardson and William Berney. Staged by Edward Mangum. Settings by Robert Stevens. Constructed by Sam Houston. Music for witches composed by Virginia Csonka. Folk music and chorus directed by Albert Berkowitz. Dances by Elizabeth Burtner. At Lisner Auditorium.

Folk Music Effective

Edward Mangum has staged the production with an assured, capable cast. Technically it suffers in several respects—there is not always enough lighting, the scene changes should be made behind a curtain and not in the half-light which destroys some of the illusion and certain sceses should be played further downstage, if only for audability. Still, it's a thoroughly able production.

Robert Stevens' settings are pictorially splendid and the folk music arranged and composed by Albert Berkowitz and Virginia Csonka is the integral part of the play it should be.

If you missed this excursion into Americana, you have a treat in store at Lisner tonight. R. L. C.

Doomed Man Sues Lawyer For $106,000

From the District Jail's death row yesterday, a 60-year-old condemned murderer filed suit for $106,000 against the attorney he says did not 'ably and faithfully defend" him.

The action was taken by Lee Fook, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair May 7 unless granted executive clemency, against Attorney Woodrow E. Faulkner. It also charges that Faulkner "converted" Fook's life savings of $6000 to his own use.

Fook was convicted in the knife slaying of Laundryman Harry Lee at Georgia ave. and Buchanan st. nw., in July, 1946.

His suit was filed by Attorney John M. Holzworth, who was in District Jail in lieu of bond on check charges when he met Fook. It says Faulkner has been discharged.

To this, Faulkner replied, "It's utterly ridiculous." He says he will continue to represent Fook.

Rent Hearings Set for 2020 McLean Units

Hearings on rent increase requests for 2020 units of the huge McLean Gardens housing development at Wisconsin ave. and Porter st. nw., will be held June 7 and 8, the District Rent Control Administrationannounced yesterday.

Examiner Denis K. Lane has been assigned to hear the owners' petition for $5-a-month raises for 1300 rooms and a straight 10 per cent hike for 720 apartments, William F. Mansfield, rent control secretary-docket clerk, revealed.

Arguments on the increase for rooms will be considered June 7. The apartment hike petition will be heard June 8. Rent officials said there "definitely" would be no continuance granted on either case, because both owners and tenants have had "plenty of notice" of the hearings.

Meat Scarcity Laid to High Grain Prices

The chief reason meat is getting scarcer—and more expensive—is shown in the Government report of grain stocks in the country issued yesterday.

The report shows an unexpectedly small "disappearance" of grain since January 1.

This means that grain is not being fed to livestock in the proportions of recent years—particularly corn and wheat.

Meat Animals Decline

High prices for grain have made the feeding of meat animals extremely unprofitable in recent months. The result has been a serious decline in the number of meat animals on farms. Many farmers have been selling off breeding stocks, which makes meat experts at the Department of Agriculture fear that it may be years before livestock numbers can be built back to meet demands for meat.

Only 678 million bushels of corn "disappeared in the three months, compared with 850 million bushels in the same period last year; 813 million bushels in 1947; 768 million in 1946 and 865 million in 1945.

Although the enormous total of 466 million bushels of wheat has been procured for export this year, there was much greater stocks of that chief bread grain on hand than a year ago. The total was 477 million bushels, about 170 million above last year's stocks of 308 million, far above the 332 million of 1946, but below the 558 million of 1945.

In spite of this increase in wheat and the sharp drop in the amount of grain fed meat and dairy animals, the country today has far less grain of all kinds on hand than in any recent years.

The total for the five chief grains, wheat, corn, rye, oats, and barley is only 1926 million bushels. That is 422 million bushels less than the 2350 million last year—or about 20 per cent. It is 240 million less than in 1946 and a huge 607 million less than in 1945.

The big drop was in corn, the chief grain for producing meat. Only 889 million bushels were stored in all positions—only about two thirds the amount on April 1, 1947 and four fifths of stocks two years ago. Only 40 million bushels were off the farms (in elevators, terminals, warehouses, etc.—the smallest in 10 years.

Oats stocks were the smallest in six years, or only 437 million bushels.

'Goat Woman' Disturbs Wedding Of MacFadden

Miami Beach, Fla., April 23 (AP).—Physical Culturist Bernarr MacFadden, 79, was married in church yesterday to blonde Mrs. Jonnie Lee, 42, despite an outburst by a person known only as "the goat woman."

The woman, often seen leading a goat around downtown Miami and a crusader against tobacco, ran behind the altar from a cloister and shouted:

"This is against the Holy Word. It is illegal."

Three ushers, all bellboys at MacFadden's hotel, gave chase, and cornered and ejected her.

Five hundred guests were inside the church and 1000 or more grouped outside.

In the excitement, MacFadden forgot to kiss the bride and had to be reminded by the preacher.

Maryland GOP Chief Prepares to Resign

Baltimore, April 23 (AP).—Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee since 1942, announced today he will tender his resignation at a special meeting of the committee May 20.

The Republican State convention will be held May 20, and the committee meeting has been called by Tait for later that day.

When he steps down next month, Tait will have headed the party in Maryland for 26 years, a term sandwiched around a period of eight when he was out office, from 1934 to 1942.

Boy Believed To Have Killed Self in Prank

The death of 14-year-old David Porterfield, found hanged in his Bladensburg, Md., home Wednesday night, was attributed by town police yesterday to a "boyish prank."

Bladensburg Police Chief Henry Nebel said his investigation of the tragedy revealed the youth, in an effort to frighten his younger sister, had threatened to hang himself from a bath room shower rod only a few minutes before his limp body was discovered, suspended from the curtain rod by a sash cord.

Nebel said the sister, Alice, 11, told him she had left David in the bathroom after he had stood poised on the edge of the bathtub, with the rope looped around his neck. When her brother laughingly told her he was going to jump, she left the room berause she "knew he was teasing," Nebel said.

The police chief speculated that David slipped on the edge of the tub, which was still wet because Alice had taken a bath only a few minutes before. His body was discovered by the sister who said she returned to the bathroom because she heard nothing further from him after she left the room.

Chief Nebel said his report would list the hanging as an "accidental suicide," despite an earlier certificate of suicide issued by Dr. James I. Boyd, Prince Georges County medical examiner.

The lad, survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Porterfield, and his sister, will be buried from Gasch's Funeral Chapel, Hyattsville, at 11 a. m. today.

Italy Pays U. S. $5,000,000 for Citizens' Claims

By the Associated Press

Italy paid the United States five million dollars yesterday to meet claims of American citizens arising from World War II.

Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani handed a check for this amount to Assistant Secretary Willard L. Thorp at the State Department.

The envoy told reporters with a smile that the payment was not intended to influence the result of American elections.

"I am sure your elections will reflect the will of the people as Italy's did," he said.

Tarchiani referred to Communist charges that American aid and other actions influenced the outcome of Italy's balloting last weekend, bringing victory to the anti-Communist Christion Socialists.

The Italian payment is the first to the United States since VJ-Day, except for interest on Export-Impor Bank loans, officials said. American aid in the same period has amounted to nearly two billion dollars.

Communists Try to Cut Base In Manchuria

Peiping, April 23 (AP).—Pro-government Chinese reports tonight said large Communist forces from Manchuria had invaded North China in a drive to lop off the base of the nationalists' Manchurian holdings.

These reports said two Communist columns, totalling six divisions (possibly 50,000 to 100,000 men), already had crossed the Great Wall into China proper just west of the Peiping-Mukden railway.

A smaller Communist body was said to be threatening Shanhaikwan, where the Great Wall ends at the sea.

Nanking, April 23 (AP).—A group of national assemblymen today wrecked the plant of a newspaper opposing Sun Fo, who ran an unexpectedly poor second in the first assembly ballot for the vice presidency. The second ballot is scheduled for Saturday.

On today's first ballot, Gen. Li Tsung-jen got 754 votes, leading a field of six. The incumbent Sun got 559, Gen. Cheng Chien 522, Yu Yu-jen 493, Mo Te-hui 218 and Hsu Fu-Lin 214. The last three were dropped from the running.

Lon Chaney Recovering From Tablet Overdose

Burbank, Calif., April 23 (AP).—Lon Chaney, jr., portrayer of movie horror roles, was reported responding favorably today to treatment for an overdose of sleeping tablets. He remained in a semicoma.

A police report that the 43-year-old actor had attempted suicide was questioned by Chaney's wife. His agent said it was an accident. Chaney's son by his first wife, Ronald, 19, was quoted by Van Nuys police as saying Mr. and Mrs. Chaney quarreled frequently. She denied this.

Investigation Of Fund Setup Is Near End

Results of an investigation of the District Society for Crippled Children will go directly to the national executive director, the investigator, Philip Rettig, said yesterday.

Rettig, director of research and legislative services for the national society, said he hopes to complete the investigation "within a few days." His action is the result of a controversy in the Washington organization which led to a "revolt" by staff workers, resignations and firings.

He emphasized that his survey was "invited" by the District Society.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ella Oppenheimer, director of maternal and child welfare for the District Health Department, urged a "more extensive program for the care of cerebral palsy patients here."

Some services of this type have been interrupted by the incidents within the District Society, although the society is not connected with the District government.

Learning Politics

Washington and Lee University students have concluded their mock political convention by "nominating" Senator Vandenberg as the Republican presidential candidate. Whether or not the choice by the students at Lexington proves an accurate forecast of the actual choice at Philadelphia, they have had an invaluable experience in practical politics. As a matter of fact, the compromise selection of Senator Vandenberg is precisely what some dopesters have been predicting as the result of a stop-Stassen combination of the Dewey and Taft forces. An element of reality was introduced into the deliberations of the Virginia college students by the fact that delegates received instructions from the Republican contenders. Thus the Lexington convention came to grips with the identical forces and issues that will be in evidence nationally.

Several other institutions conduct mock conventions similar to that held at Lexington. The approach is one that might well be adopted more generally. An understanding of the way in which political nominations are made is certainly a part of a liberal education and, indeed, is essential if a more informed and intelligent electorate is to have an adequate check on what goes on in the traditionally smoke-filled convention halls. By participating themselves in the haranguing and vote-swapping, the students can gain a far more vivid appreciation of what makes political parties tick than they ever could acquire from even the most non-academic textbook.

Pension Drives

Under an NLRB ruling announced recently proposals concerning pension and retirement plans must be considered in collective bargaining negotiations if unions so request. The board regards company payments into pension funds as a form of wage increase, while the terms of retirement fall in the category of "conditions of employment." Since the Taft-Hartley Act requires bargaining "in respect to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, or other conditions of employment," a refusal by employers to bargain on pensions is held to be an unfair labor practice.

This ruling—the first decision of its kind—together with the efforts of John L. Lewis to force through his $100 monthly pension plan for his miners is expected to put an extra punch into numerous other pending union demands for pension and welfare funds. The steel union, which has long been trying to put through a pension plan, will certainly be encouraged to press its demands if steel companies owning coal mines agree to pay generous pensions to miners in their employ.

It is rather ironical that long-range programs for protecting workers against life's natural hazards should come to the fore at a time when the social and economic outlook is so obscure as to make all planning for the future highly tentative. This shift in emphasis is probably due in part to the existence of a high degree of employment, causing workers to feel more secure in their jobs and consequently more disposed to take part of their wages in the form of remote pension benefits. But regardless of motives, the result of pension plans is to give their beneficiaries an increased stake in maintaining a stable economy. For, as prospective pensioners, they are concerned to maintain the purchasing power of the dollars in which their pensions will be paid. As pension funds established through collective bargaining multiply, the time may come when organized labor will either have to forgo demands for wage increases that raise living costs or else be content with pensions whose real value has shrunk because of rising prices.

Prof. Sumner H. Slichter dealt with this problem in an address before the Academy of Political Science. He assumes that wages will be forced up by union action faster than output, with the result that prices will have to rise if "a creeping increase" in unemployment is to be avoided. Even if that price rise were no greater than 2 per cent each year, he points out that pensions would lose a good part of their purchasing power between the time that a young man took employment and his retirement at 65 or 70 years. Professor Slichter doubts, therefore, whether private companies could offer the kind of life insurance and pensions that would be attractive in an economy of steadily rising prices. And that conclusion leads him to question whether the present practice of determining wages and prices by "tens of thousands of bargains between unions and employers" should be permitted.

If his assumption that the existing system of collective bargaining means a steady rise in prices from year to year should prove to be correct, national wage policies will, as he implies, probably have to be substituted for the present system. For the reasons given, the chances of such a development are at least lessened by the establishment of pension systems.

Policing Palestine

President Truman's unhappy penchant for casual remarks has again involved him in an unnecessary controversy with members of Congress. At his press conference he was reminded that some members of Congress have questioned his right to send American troops to Palestine without the approval of Congress. In response he said he wondered what his critics knew about the authority of the Commander in Chief to send troops anywhere. His remarks are being interpreted as expressing an intention to order American participation in whatever United Nations force can be created to police Palestine, without consulting Congress.

It is true, of course, that the Commander in Chief has often sent troops into foreign lands without the assent of Congress. Some historians have counted 125 instances of this sort, including the occupation of Haiti and Nicaragua in recent years. The Supreme Court has made it amply clear that the President may send troops into action anywhere to protect American lives and property. Where that power ends is, as Senator Vandenberg points out, a "twilight zone" that has never been closely defined. But one fact seems obvious: the Commander in Chief could not in any event keep troops abroad for any long period without the consent of Congress in the form of appropriations to sustain them.

It has been clearly understood, moreover, that the United States would contribute troops to the UN peace force with the specific approval of Congress. The United Nations Participation Act, which Mr. Truman signed on December 20, 1945, authorizes the negotiation of special agreements with the Security Council specifying the number and types of armed forces to be made available to the council. Such agreements, the law provides, shall be effective only when they are approved by Congress. Because of the arbitrary stand of the Soviet Union, no progress toward creation of a world police force has been made. Consequently, no American troops can be put under UN orders at present through this statute.

Apparently the President thinks that his deadlock leaves him free to invoke his power as Commander in Chief in the Palestine situation. But this power is associated chiefly with temporary emergencies. The President acts quickly to protect the lives or property of the citizens or the basic interests of the United States against attack or grave danger. We do not think that this power can be properly invoked to police a distant land on a long-term basis, without the cooperation of Congress.

With the relinquishment of the British mandate over Palestine on May 15, authority over that unhappy land will revert to the allied and associated powers who won the first World War of which the United States is one. Certainly we have a joint responsibility there for maintaining the peace whether or not a UN security force or a special UN police for Palestine can be set up. But, whatever that policy is to be, it will have to be worked out with the approval of Congress. The President only muddies the water when he talks as if he could handle the problem alone simply by invoking his power as Commander in Chief.

Headache For ECA

Somebody has said that America would never become great or live up to its world responsibilities until it had an exportable surplus of young men for jobs abroad. We certainly are in need of them now. And we need them trained. According to authoritative estimates about a thousand persons will be needed to administer the overseas program of ECA. Donald H. McLean, discussing this problm in an article published by the New York Times, suggests as a solution the creation by Congress of an Overseas Administration Corps to train civilians in the administration of the recovery program and for work in occupied countries. The corps would have top salary classifications high enough to attract the most promising novices, and provision would also be made for retirement benefits and shifts to the Foreign Service to overcome fears of sudden loss of employment.

To be sure, this proposal would not satisfy the immediate need for trained personnel, but it would not be many months before those entering the corps would be equipped for service. Furthermore, as Mr. McLean points out, training might in some cases be given on a part-time basis after the trainees had started work. Certainly it would be much easier to induce promising young men to enlist for work in the foreign field, if they were offered opportunities for training that would help to insure promotion.

If there were a prospect that our overseas ventures could be speedily terminated, we might perhaps risk getting along as best we can with what we have. However, the recovery program is a four-year undertaking and, after that, there is no assurance that we shall be able to withdraw aid from all participating countries. Under the circumstances, it seems to us that positive steps should be taken without delay to repair our personnel deficiencies by doing all possible to make overseas positions attractive to ambitious young people as well as to older trained officials who are naturally reluctant to take on positions lacking security of tenure.

Condon File

The President would have done well, we think, if, instead of somewhat cryptically quoting Andrew Jackson, he had explained his reasons for refusing to turn over to the House Committee on Un-American Activities an FBI report on Dr. Edward U. Condon. His reasons are very good ones. They are reasons which have impelled other Presidents to refuse other requests of a similar character by other congressional committees, even when these requests have been backed up, as in this case, by a resolution of the whole House of Representatives. They are reasons which, if properly explained, the American people will readily understand and accept.

In the first place, when the FBI investigates a Federal employe, much of its information is given to it in confidence and can only be obtained upon pledge not to disclose its sources. To make such information available to all the members of a congressional committee—especially one as notoriously careless of reputations as the Thomas Committee—would be to embarrass informants and break faith with them. In many cases, obviously, disclosure of information amounts to disclosure of its source. The end result of this would be to make much more difficult the FBI's task of gathering information. People might decline to confide in its investigators if the confidence were violated.

In the second place, the FBI being an investigating and not an evaluating agency includes in its reports, as indeed it must, leads, suspicions and even the assertions of malicious or misinformed persons without pretending to pass judgment on their validity. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover has very properly taken care to avoid the assumption of judicial responsibilities by his bureau. He leaves it to appropriate executive officials—or ultimately, under the employe loyalty program, to the Loyalty Review Board—to weigh the evidence contained in his reports and to sift the significant from the insubstantial. But if his reports, or, worse yet, derogatory portions of them, are made public, they may do irreparable injury and injustice to innocent individuals. Publication of these reports would put a premium upon character assassination.

Finally, there is involved a collateral issue of great importance. Publication of FBI reports—or submission of them to congressional committees which would inevitably result in "leaks" or partial publication—would, in effect, put the FBI in the position of turning thumbs up or thumbs down on the fate of every Federal official. For the inclusion of any evidence whatever which cast doubt upon the loyalty of an official would automatically disqualify him for office. This is precisely the kind of power which Mr. Hoover has consistently eschewed. Certainly it is a power that no police agency can be allowed to exercise in a free society.

Prohibition Wedge

The ills associated with liquor can no more be banned by legislation than vice can be eliminated by passing resolutions against it. The country learned that quite conclusively during the gangster-ridden speakeasy days of the twenties. But the forces calling for a return of prohibition approach the matter with a religious zeal, and they are never quiescent. Their newest tack takes the form of two innocently worded bills on which hearings were opened this week by the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. The first, by Senator Johnson, would restrict illustrations in liquor advertising to facsimiles of bottles or labels. The second, and in our opinion more sinister, is Senator Reed's endeavor to ban all liquor, wine and beer advertising suggesting that use of such beverages "is beneficial to health or contributes to physical upbuilding, will increase social or business standing or prestige, or is traditional in American family life, or is or should be a part of the atmosphere of the American home."

One does not have to be an apostle of the liquor interests to see the fallacy in such an attack. For there is but a short distance between this type of restriction on liquor and a revival of blanket prohibition; likewise, the control over one type of advertising would set a precedent for controls over the advertising of other products that someone deemed sinful. There is a big difference between such artificial restrictions and those imposed by the Federal Trade Commission for harmful or misleading advertising of specific products on the basis of objective tests. Liquor is not harmful per se; it is its abuse that makes it so. The same may be said of a host of other items such as tobacco, or even chocolate bars.

This does not mean that liquor should escape all restraints. It is now quite properly taxed as a luxury, distributed through control boards in some areas, and subject to grain allocations during food shortages. There are right now restrictions on liquor advertising in the standards of copy acceptability imposed by newspapers as well as in the self-restraint of the industry itself. The point is that to formalize into law restrictions on such advertising would shift to the Federal Government a responsibility which in the last analysis is one for self-discipline. The basic flaw in campaigns of this sort, it seems to us, is that they would not serve to halt the abuses arising from overindulgence, but merely would invite all the additional clandestine abuses which the country voted to end in 1933.

Sayers' Appointment

In his April 11 article on John L. Lewis, Mr. Alfred Friendly made a mistake to which I feel that I ought to call your attention. I quote:

"But Sayers was appointed to his job by Secretary Ickes, at Lewis' behest. He cooperated closely with Lewis in his job. On retiring, he was hired by Lewis as medical director of the miners' health and welfare fund."

I did not appoint Dr. Sayers as Director of the Bureau of Mines at Mr. Lewis' "behest." In fact, I did not even consult Mr. Lewis. To the best of my recollection, Dr. Sayers was suggested to me by the late E. K. Burlew, who was then my executive assistant, or first assistant secretary, I do not remember which. Moreover, I had watched and been impressed by Dr. Sayers' administrative ability. I had had to ask for the resignation of Dr. Sayers' predecessor because he was not able to carry the heavy administrative load of the Bureau of Mines.

It seemed to me to be up to the Government to do what it could to improve safety conditions in the coal mines and thus keep down the casualty lists which were so shocking. Dr. Sayers was a medical man who had come to the Bureau of Mines from the Public Health Service. His outstanding interest was the health and safety condition of the coal mines, and it was for this very reason that I recommended his appointment to President Roosevelt. If the Bureau of Mines was to exercise the care over the coal mines of the country that it seemed to me that it should, it was time to put at its head a man who had specialized in that subject and whose principal interest it was. I knew of no one except Dr. Sayers who answered these specifications. However, in addition, he was fortunately a good administrator.

It is true that, almost immediately after my decision to appoint Sayers I learned that his appointment would be satisfactory to Mr. Lewis. I knew this, because, before the appointment was announced Mr. Lewis sought an interview with me. He came in to suggest three names of men, the appointment of any one of whom he felt would be satisfactory to the United Mine Workers of America, which, of course, meant Mr. Lewis. Dr. Sayers' name was on this list so that I told Mr. Lewis that I had already decided to appoint Sayers. However, the appointment of a man who, independently of Mr. Lewis, happened to be satisfactory to him is something quite different from appointing him at Mr. Lewis' "behest."

Whether or not Dr. Sayers "cooperated closely with Lewis in his job" I do not know. I hope that he did to the extent that would make it possible for Sayers to do all that could be done under our inadequate laws to protect the lives and safety of the coal miners of the country.

U. N. For Peace

The biggest question in the new bond drive is: "Who'll be around at maturity time?" After campaigns for bonds, cancer, Red Cross, Easter seals, community chest, tax cut, conscription, UMT, CARE, ERP, et al—please, could we have a little push for peace? It's not the 25 billions or so, but this living on borrowed time is not the least conducive to peace of mind; to speak of liberty, freedom and the future under such conditions is a very unfunny play on words. The foreboding return to power politics causes this erstwhile foxhole dweller to wince no little.

It is unfortunate that Russian action has afforded us the luxury of camouflaging our real attitude toward the U. N. Sure, we have resolutions recommending a revision of the Charter. That they are collecting dust in congressional pigeonholes matters little, apparently. The U. N. is crumbling, not because of the Russian veto but because the U. S. A. is unwilling to become one in a great family of nations. If the current bottleneck is the theory that a tiny Luxembourg could vote us into war, why not face the truth? In 1941, Congress only concurred on something that Japan had voted the day before. Our most feasible hope for peace is a U. N. with a single purpose—protecting boundaries. To tamper further with sovereign rights would be an invitation to disunity.

Many are hopeful that a constructive plan for permanent peace is in the making. But if something better than the same old war-breeding power politics has not been put into action by November, Jim Farley may be surprised at the number of appeasers who jump aboard that last resort bandwagon of Henry Wallace.

Columnists' Opinions

Articles in your April 20 issue this morning by Messrs. Lippmann and Welles both on the same subject (the Bogota revolt), each written from a slightly different point of view but arriving at almost identical conclusions, are most impressive and should be influential.

The opinions and suggestions of these gentlemen, whose acumen, intelligence and experience should be held in the highest regard, are accepted far too lightly in our official circles. JOHN A. EYRE.

Prolonged Art Exhibit

The German pictures at the National Gallery are a first-class attraction for the whole world. They would bring many thousands of visitors from all parts of the globe. Could The Washington Post not institute petitions to keep them here till they could be safely returned?

Our Seamy Side

In regard to John Steinbeck's new book on the Russian people as is somewhat clumsily reviewed in The Washington Post of April 18, it may or may not be true that life under Stalin is tender; it may or may not be true that Steinbeck's treatment is superficial and it may or may not be true that Steinbeck is a naive and childlike "thinker." Only on the last statement would I enjoy taking issue with Mr. North at length, but at a later date.

Doesn't he give any credit to the mind in the other countries? He glibly states that Grapes of Wrath has been exploited by our enemies as the truthful life in America. In the first place it does show a truthful side of America whether Mr. North likes it or not. The primary reason that an ugly side of us is used for propaganda by our enemies is that there is so little of it revealed; we are too busy telling the world how perfect we are.

Mr. North might be interested to know that some of the intelligent people throughout the world know that America has its good side, its beauty, its grandeur, in spite of Grapes of Wrath. But they also know that we have our bad side and are praying that we become mature enough to admit it. They know that we practically hold their fate in our hands and hope we are mature enough to handle it wisely.

Someone remarked the other day that it was a pity that The Iceman Cometh was sent to Sweden—it reveals a side of America that doesn't really exist, he said. He should get around the country a little and ask Mr. North to close his typewriter and join him.

Now who is the naive and childlike? Mr. North must grow up and realize that all is not right in our country and that until it is uncovered we will never mature. Therefore, never be capable of assuming the responsibility so quickly laid upon our shoulders after the last war. We have to stop, Mr. North, revealing the American way of life like a gaudy cigarette ad. When we do, as Mr. Steinbeck has courageously done in Grapes of Wrath, we will begin approaching maturity for which the world is so hopeful—and I pray, patiently—waiting for. ROBERT E. REARDON.

Softening The Armed Forces

Just when we should be doing our utmost to prepare the Nation to cope with every eventuality a movement to weaken our armed forces by undermining discipline seems to be gathering momentum. It may now be counted on to proceed with renewed virulence, eagerly nurtured by those whose conscious aim is to soften us up for an easy kill by the enemy and seconded by persons of limited mental horizons. The partially successful attempt to break down courtmartial procedure is a case in point the objections to saluting and to officers' club and restaurants are others.

The most effective method of undermining morale is, of course, accomplished by the "agent provocateur," be he Communist, Nazi or congenital troublemaker who encourages dissatisfaction while remaining in the shadows. He and his kind should be sought out and mercilessly dealt with. The problems of this nature which plagued the armed forces during the last war should not be forgotten. They promise, unfortunately, to be more troublesome in the future.

What is the background of those men and women who have been so vocal in their denunciation of the "brass hats," as they are pleased to denominate everyone in authority, which, in their minds, really means everyone from a corporal up? I feel sure that something more than the gratification of that deplorable national urge to level people down would be found as the source of their enthusiasm.

It is interesting to note that the Communists, who began their warlike career in Russia by the abolition of military rank, have, in order to build an efficient fighting force, found themselves obliged to reestablish all the old distinctions and have imposed on the men a servile demeanor toward their officers which our men would find unbearably tyrannous.

If we would survive as a Nation, this is no time to be careful of the feelings of hysterical busybodies, be they ever so influential in church or state. History shows that in the decline and fall of every state before a violent or stealthy aggressor such groups have played a fatal role in encouraging both moral and physical disarmament, just as they are doing here with a Communist clique under the banner of humanitarianism and the dignity of man. With a highly superior air they seek to inject the virus of a creeping paralysis into the veins of the Nation and will then squawk for help when danger looms.

Let us have the moral courage to learn and to apply, in the interest of our own survival, the lessons of discipline and enthusiasm for the cause, which are so largely responsible for the Communist successes.

Everyone who loves this country and our way of life will reject fearlessly and sternly every manifestation of this softening up propaganda, regardless of the quarter from which it may emanate. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Man-Run Foreign Policy

By Malvina Lindsay

Too Much Talk

A LARGE NUMBER of women, and many men as well, who are supporting the Nation's foreign policy, are yet deeply concerned over the bellicose talk attending it. They also see the European Recovery Program as becoming too negative, too political, too combative.

In women's organizations, among women leaders, even in back-fence discussion, alarm is expressed over the completely masculine—military-pugnacious—approach to many foreign problems. In recent House debate over ERP there was so much irresponsible, even fantastic, saber rattling in speeches that Representative Frances Bolton took the floor and pleaded with members to consider what they were saying so recklessly about the "next war." Some military authorities are warning that talk of public officials should be softer—at least until the stick is bigger.

One reason for this bluster (inevitably accompanied by protestations of self-control and firmness) may be that there has been no feminine balance in postwar rehabilitation, in the making of foreign policy, in the shaping of ERP, in the drawing up of the new armament and defense program. Recent action of the House in shunting women of the armed services back into the Reserve Corps just as they were beginning to be urgently needed shows the trend of the times in public matters.

NOR ARE women advising or helping out on top levels where plans for industrial mobilization and other phases of nonshooting defense are being worked out. And in the occupied countries, especially Germany, little attention had been given until recently to rehabilitation programs for women, though they hold the balance of political power, and though their children are shaping the Europe of tomorrow. However, a start on a program has now been made in the appointment of Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, former member of Congress, as a roving adviser to the military government on problems of German women in the American zone.

Now as the European Recovery Program gets going, women are asking what voice and influence they will have in it. The American Association of University Women has officially requested that women be appointed to policy-making positions in the new Economic Cooperation Administration and its public advisory board. It points out that throughout the country are many specially qualified women familiar with the problems involved, and that appointment of some of them would not only contribute to better administration of the program, but also would demonstrate to the world that American women participate in their Government.

The recovery program will deal much with food, which is woman's special province, also with labor, in which abroad she carries an equal load with men. Its beneficiaries will number far more women and children than men. Its cost through taxes will be paid in high proportion by American women, who own about 70 per cent of private wealth.

WHAT IS especially concerning many women is the spirit in which ERP will be carried out. If it becomes solely a weapon, it will reap the fruits of belligerency. But if made a constructive tool for rebuilding Europe into a force for peace, it could develop into the bold, generous, historic gesture it was first intended.

Those who regard it in this latter light think not so much of the guns it will send abroad as of the hunger it will appease, of the jobs it will give, of the lives it will save, of the self-respect it will restore to individuals and nations who are helped to self-support, of the democratic attitudes and processes that will be strengthened as people get the capacity and courage to govern themselves.

That the start of such a program should be accompanied by so much fist-shaking many citizens deplore. Is it even good strategy, they ask, for an armament program still largely on paper to be heralded by tough talk, witch hunts, war scares? Are men, in whose hands foreign affairs lie, reverting to their tribal habits of trying to frighten an enemy by noise and sorcery? Are they getting a little intoxicated by the sound of the tom-toms? If so, they need in their powwows of state and of war—as in the home—some calmer voices of counsel.

Identifying States

The most astonishing thing I have read in a great while was the report published in The Washington Post of April 17, showing the prevalence of unbelievable ignorance regarding elementary geography of our own country. Persons tested were given a list of 10 States, (the 10 most populous of the States!) and asked to locate them on a map where they were marked only by numbers. The "average" college graduate could locate only 8 of the 10 States, the average high school graduate only 6.3, and "voters" with grade school education a pitiful 4.1!

Except for persons actually illiterate, such lack of primary grade information is beyond comprehension. For example, I not only can point to each of the 48 States on a map without a moment's hesitation, but could also identify each of the 48 by its shape alone.

How can people who don't know the first A-B-C about their own country vote wisely to govern the greatest Nation on earth, and to it to play its part in solving the world's problems? What have our schools been doing, anyway?

'Unsordid Act'

From The London Economist

MEN LOSE their capacity for astonishment very easily. Let a thing be mentioned often enough and they begin to accept it as a normal, unsensational fact. Few things have been mentioned more persistently in the last ten months than the chances and the hopes and the possibilities offered by the Marshall Plan. Insensibly, people have grown used to it. Its fabulous quality has been stripped away.

But this week, since the plan is no longer just a hope or a chance, but a concrete reality—an act approved by Congress and signed by the President, provisional funds already granted, ships already sailing with supplies from American harbors—this week it is fitting that the peoples of western Europe should attempt to renew their capacity for wonder, so that they can return to the United States a gratitude in some way commensurate with the aid they are about to receive. For a day or two the Marshall Plan must be retrieved from the realm of normal day-to-day developments in international affairs and be seen for what it is—an act without peer in history.

In time of peace, in order to aid nations geographically remote and politically separate from the Americas, at a time of great internal shortages, the United State is ready to give away over five billion dollars' worth of commodities as the first installment of a wider program, to give them for peaceful economic reconstruction and, save for minor exceptions, to give them without political conditions of any sort.

A year ago the project would have been inconceivable—Congress was then making desperately heavy weather over only 400 million dollars for aid to Greece and Turkey. Ten years ago such an initiative would have driven the Nation en masse into the arms of the America Firsters. And search back as one may through the annals of the United States or of any other power, there is no record of a comparable act of inspired and generous diplomacy.

SO, WITH their sense of astonishment restored, the peoples of Western Europe must offer their thanks to the American Nation who, through their Congress, have now spoken for the bill. It will be difficult, after this demonstration of international solidarity, to go on repeating the old gibes about American isolationism, the old complacent references to American political immaturity. In recent months, the American public, in its eagerness for information, its sustained interest in foreign affairs, and in its acceptance of positive and onerous international responsibility, is rapidly qualifying for the title of the least isolationist and self-absorbed of peoples.

And this development in turn is due, above all, to the work of a small group of leaders, on whose vision and devoted labours the successful development of the plan has depended, on Mr. Marshall and Mr. Acheson for the sweep and courage of the initial project, on Mr. Vandenberg and Mr. Lewis Douglas, among many others, for the skill and patience—and speed—with which it was piloted through both houses of Congress. This last point of speed is clearly vital. How often in the last 20 years has the reaction of democracy come too little and too late; but this time, the initiative has been captured and held by the party of freedom. It is true that the Russians carry a large measure of responsibility for the breakneck speed (by American standards) of the debates on the plan in the House of Representatives, all of which took place after the Communist coup in Prague.

But there is no reason to suppose that, without the lesson of Czechoslovakia, the House of Representatives would have given a decision different from the Senate's, for which the groundwork had been fully laid before the seizure of Czechoslovakia, even though the debate might have been larger and more discordant. Nor has the bill been loaded with military and strategic commitments or diverted in any way from its original fundamentally constructive and pacific purpose. It emerges from its congressional ordeal as it went into it—as a bill for the peaceful economic reconstruction of Europe.

NEVERTHELESS, there is a warning to Europe in the extent to which Russian action has speeded up the final phases of the Marshall debate. For the sake of peace in Europe, it must be hoped that, as the plan develops, its pacific character will become more and more obvious, Russian opposition will decline and the effectiveness of Communist opposition be hamstrung by growing economic prosperity. When in a year's time, and two years' time and three years' time, the further appropriations come to be voted by Congress, it should be assumed that the spur of the Communist menace may be less sharp than it is today. Under such conditions, will Congress find the plan a sufficiently worthwhile end in itself? Will the prospect of continuing a pacific effort of international reconstruction be compelling enough to call forth further dollars?

The answer lies in one thing only—the way in which the European nations themselves go about their work of recovery. Nothing could be more misguided at this moment than to throw one's cap in the air and believe that the "battle for the Marshall Plan" has been fought and won. The Americans are moving up the heavy guns and the mechanized units, but the use the European general staff will make of them cannot yet even be hazarded. The operation that lies ahead is one that calls for the last reserves of energy and skill in the Sixteen Nations. Energy they must exhibit because the bulk of the productive effort falls on them. Even if all Marshall aid for all four years is added together, it amounts to only some 5 per cent of the total output necessary to meet the targets laid down in the Paris report. And skill is no less essential, since the use of that 5 per cent may make all the difference between Europe's present halting, jamming economy and the reactivation of the whole machine.

AS THE latest report of the Economic Commission for Europe points out, the actual recovery of production in Europe is substantial. What is lacking is the free circulation and exchange of wealth made possible by active and balanced trade. The European economy is like a machine with three or four essential cogs missing. These the American 5 per cent is designed to supply. But their restoration is not automatic. In the last two years Europe has already received some nine billion dollars and will not receive a larger figure in the next two. If the results in 1949 are to be different from those of 1947, the Sixteen must fulfill their side of the bargain by solving together in the closest collaboration the problems which eluded them as long as they acted separately in 13 jealous and independent sovereignties. If they so act, there is a chance of the plan succeeding in Europe. If they do not, their failure will spell the end of congressional interest and with it, in all probability, the loss of the later appropriations.

It is too early to judge the likely scale of Europe's performance. The final form of the continuing organization is still undecided. No appointments have been made, no names mentioned. So far there is not the material to decide on either the probable scale of effort or the seriousness with which the governments are facing their new responsibility. But it is not too early to say, with categorical certainty, that the success or failure of the plan now lies fairly and squarely with the Sixteen Nations. They have been given the tools. It is now for them to finish the job.

Ohio Politics Not Involved, Sawyer Says

Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, newly appointed Secretary of Commerce, denied yesterday that his nomination to the post was tied up with Democratic politics in Ohio.

Here for his first Cabinet meeting, Sawyer pointed out that President Truman was not involved in any Ohio primary dispute and "my appointment obviously bore no relation to the Ohio contest." He had previously indorsed Ray T. Miller, organization candidate for Governor in the Democratic primary, and had agreed to serve as honorary chairman of Miller's campaign committee.

Yesterday he said he would continue to support Miller and would not step out as one of his honorary campaign chairmen. In a statement issued shortly before attending the Cabinet meeting, Sawyer said:

"The President is not involved in my primary dispute in Ohio and my appointment obviously bore no relation to the Ohio contest.

"As the President's appointee, I shall take no part in the primary. Heretofore, although I took no active part in the campaign, I did agree to serve as one of the honorary chairmen of Ray Miller's committee and have indorsed him as a well-qualified candidate for Governor.

"Those acts I cannot and do not wish to withdraw."

News of his nomination was received with considerable criticism among Ohio Democrats in Congress, who said they were not consulted by President Truman. Some of them professed to see in it a move by Mr. Truman to take sides in the primary fight between Miller and former Gov. Frank Lausche.

Sawyer was appointed to succeed W. Averell Harriman, who accepted nomination as roving ambassador" under the Economic Cooperation Administration. Both nominations must be confirmed by the Senate.

'Hex' Theory Injected Into Cows' Deaths

Williamsport, Md., April 23 (AP).—The way Harvey Brewer's cows have been dying every Saturday started folks talking about "hexes" and such, but the probabilities are that lead poisoning is the real cause.

On four consecutive Saturdays, Brewer found a dead Hereford cow on his farm at Kemp's Hill.

Brewer wasn't the only loser. Don Rinehart of near Clearspring and Paul Bowers of near Williamsport also fund a dead cow each—always on a Saturday.

Sheriff Joseph D. Baker of Washington County, after hearing of all the trouble, said that "it makes one think someone has a 'hex' on the Hereford cow owners of the county."

Paint Pails Found in Pasture

However, Investigation led experts at the University of Maryland at College Park today to consider poisoning as the cause of the death of Brewer's cattle, at least.

Mark Miller of Hagerstown, Washington County farm agent, and Dr. Leo J. Poelma of the university paid a visit to the Brewer place.

They found, among other things, that a corner of the pasture had been used as a trash dump by unidentified persons. Among the trash were several empty paint buckets.

They sent the viscera of one of the dead cows to College Park. Dr. Ray Wiley, chemical analyst, reported today he found traces of lead and arsenic in the animal's stomach. He didn't say for certain the poisons caused death, but the inference was there.

Mineral Hunger the Cause?

Dr. Arthur Brueckner of the university, who also participated in the investigation, has a theory on why the cows ate poison, if they did.

In fact, at this moment he is preparing a scientific paper to the effect that bovine animals are afflicted with "mineral hunger."

Dr. Brueckner said that because of this hunger for minerals, cattle frequently will eat soil to satisfy the desire.

They will even eat old paint off buildings, he said.

Again, when trash dumps contain paint buckets, galvanized, iron or other things impregnated with lead, sodium nitrate, zinc or arsenic, these metals eventually wash into the ground.

"There are a great many cattle losses from this source each year," said Dr. Brueckner.

Kentucky 9th District To Elect Congressman

Louisville, Ky., April 23 (AP).—Kentucky voters in the ninth congressional district will elect a congressman Saturday. There is only one candidate in the Republican stronghold.

Former Circuit Judge William Lewis of London, is the Republican nominee. Democrats made one attempt to nominate but were prevented by a flood in the area from holding a scheduled convention.

The House seat vacancy was created by the death of Representative John M. Robsion of Barbourville, Republican.

Air Force Titles To Distinguish Men From Army

The Air Force has chosen titles for its "airmen" to distinguish them from Army enlisted personnel.

The new ratings would be authorized under pending legislation.

For warrant officers there would be four grades—Chief Aairman and Senior Airman, 1st, 2d or 3d class. A Chief Airman would receive pay equivalent to that of a major. It would range down to a second lieutenant's pay for senior airman, 3d class.

Here is how the Air Force proposes to rename the grades for enlisted men: Master sergeant becomes senior air sergeant; technical sergeant, air sergeant, 1st class; staff sergeant, air sergeant; sergeant, airman 1st class; corporal, airman, 2d class; private first class, airman 3d class; private, airman 4th class.

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

Wallace's Challenge

NEW YORK.—The issue of freedom versus security is at the root of the present-day dilemma. Nowhere is it better illustrated than in the campaign of Henry A. Wallace to be President.

Childs

In the busy Wallace headquarters here every resource of modern communication is employed to promote Wallace and his doctrines. He demands and gets the facilities of national radio networks. His own paper, the Citizen, is a skillful propaganda sheet.

Yet there are among Wallace's most ardent backers those who would change the system under which we live and, in the last resort, they would use force and violence to change it. They subscribe to the doctrines of Marx and Lenin, who held that the capitalist system was inevitably doomed but that its passing might have to be hastened by sabotage and finally by an armed uprising.

Some of these backers would accept a dictatorship of the Left in order to avoid the evils of a dictatorship of the Right. Paul Robeson, one of the Wallace cochairmen, has said as much.

This is not true, of course, of Wallace himself. He is a deeply religious man, with a passionate, mystical Christianity superimposed on his Scotch Presbyterian background. Nor is it true of most of those who will vote for him in November.

C. B. BALDWIN, Wallace's campaign manager, says the estimate of a 10-million vote for Wallace is conservative. If Wallace should get the same percentage as the late Robert M. La Follette, sr., who ran on a third party ticket in 1924, his vote would be 13 million, according to Baldwin, who has more grass roots political knowledge than the other aides around Wallace headquarters.

Baldwin bases his prediction on a large total vote, perhaps as high as 60 million. The interest stirred by Wallace, Baldwin says confidently, will bring a big turnout. Furthermore, he believes the advance polls will not express Wallace's true strength, since many timid voters will wait until the secrecy of the polling booth before they express their real convictions.

In my opinion the 10-million figure for Wallace is quite possible. Particularly if the major contest is between President Truman and an ultraconservative such as Speaker Joseph Martin, the protest vote is likely to be large. Analysts outside the Wallace camp have predicted one million votes for the third party in New York.

Naturally, as in the management of any political campaign, the effort is to create a bandwagon psychology. Nor are the Wallace managers averse to having their champion wear the crown of martyrdom. The picture of a people's hero persecuted by monopoly wealth and a monopoly press has an appeal to all who feel themselves picked on or frustrated.

YET THE real challenge is the one which the Wallaceites rarely speak of. It comes from the non-Communist Left.

The most able and effective leader of the non-Communist Left is Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers, who narrowly escaped assassination in his home in Detroit. Reuther licked the once-dominant pro-Communist faction in the UAW and licked them in a tough fight by democratic means. He has since been engaged in cleaning up the mess they left behind.

Reuther has made the most forthright attacks on Wallace. On the West Coast recently he called Wallace "an agent of Stalin." There was serious thought in Wallace headquarters of bringing suit against Reuther for libel or slander.

While the attempted assassination of Reuther may have had nothing to do with politics—and everyone must hope that this can be established—yet the background of the hatred between the two factions of the labor-Left cannot be ignored. Certainly it is in the minds of those around Reuther who fought with him against the pro-Communist faction.

This is a symptom—a warning symptom. It is not hard to recall some unhappy historical parallels. In Germany, in the late '20s and early '30s, the Communists waged ruthless war on the Socialists. Street violence was common. This was at the time that Hitler was consolidating his forces for the Nazi dictatorship.

Abuse of freedom will bring an end to freedom. It will bring an end to freedom not merely for those who believed it was expedient to exploit freedom in any way they saw fit for the purpose of their new heaven. It will bring an end to freedom for all, including those who believed in it most passionately.

There are no easy answers. But the historical parallels should sober all who have any reason left.

Taxpayer's Right to Appeal Another's Assessment Upheld

Annapolis, Md., April 23 (AP).—The Court of Appeals today declared a taxpayer may demand a hearing on the assessment of another person's property.

Its opinion wes delivered in deciding an appeal by the Board of Anne Arundel County Commissioners who had refused to grant such a hearing.

By its action, the State's high court upheld an order of Judge James Clark in the county court.

Judge Clark had told commissioners they must listen to the grievances of Justin G. Buch of Riviera Beach, president of the County Citizens Protetcive Association.

Buch had described 47 assessments as "inequitable, unjust and under value."

Benjamin Michaelson, attorney for the commissioners, contended Buch was not entitnel to a hearing on property other than his own, a point that won the support of Attorney General Hall Hammond.

Hammond's appearance in the case was as a "friend of the court." He said the State Tax Commission was vitally interested in the outcome.

Judge William J. Henderson wrote the Appellate Court's anwer.

Maryland law on assessment protests is "so sweeping as to forbid its limitation, by construction, to the assessment of property owned by the particular taxpayer demanding the hearing," he said.

"Upon the present record we must assume," he added, "that the petitioner (Buch) was acting in good faith.

"Of course, if proof is lacking on that score, the proceeding should be dismissed."

Hammond had argued the county commissioners might be turned into "a board of review or equalization."

He said Buch's interpretation of the law would "open the door to vexatious and frivolous demands, and interfere with the orderly reassessment of property under the continuous assessment plan."

On another issue, the appellate court decided that by refusing a hearing, the commissioners had not merely indicated they would not change the assessments.

Rep. Smith To Enter House Race Again

Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) announced yesterday he will again be a candidate for the House seat he has held for 18 consecutive years.

In announcing his candidacy in the August 3 Democratic Primary, Smith added: "When I don't run, then that's news." He said he would file for the primary before the May 4 deadline.

Eighth District Democratic Chairman Gardner Boothe said last night no candidate had filed yet for the primary.

May Be No Primary

If Smith is unopposed as a Democratic congressional candidate, he will be declared his party's nominee and the primary will not be held.

Possible opposition to Representative Smith was seen in Arlington Democrat Arthur F. Souther, who said yesterday that "a number of people" had asked him to file for the primary.

However, he said he had made no decision on the matter yet.

Appeal Filed

Souther, who has been fighting plans for an Arlington convention June 1 to pick State convention delegates, said yesterday he had filed a five-page appeal on the matter to the State Appeals Committee.

According to Souther, Arlington convention plans violate party regulations on six counts and bar Federal workers from participating. His earlier appeal to the Eighth District Committee had been rejected.

Stassen Asks For U. N. Front To Halt Russia

Akron, Ohio, April 23 (NYHT.).—Harold E. Stassen called tonight for the United States to invite other United Nations countries—especially signatories of the Brussels pact—to take collective action against any threat of Russian aggression or infiltration.

The former Minnesota Governor asserted that the group should be formed within the terms of the United Nations Charter to take "affirmative action" against possible Russian aggression and to outlaw the Communist party organization in their countries. The security group was proposed as an interim measure pending a general conference of UN members to rewrite the peace organization's charter.

Challenged Taft

Seeking support for his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Stassen challenged Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) his rival in the Ohio primary May 4, to study his proposals and announce whether he "agrets or disagrees." Stassen asserted that Taft has "not publicly projected his views in detail into the future."

He added that "juding by his past philosophy I am concerned that (Taft's) approach would be an inadequate and unrealistic solution to the world situation."

Maryland Boy Legislature Would Fire Fisheries Group

Annapolis, Md., April 23 (AP).—Maryland's boy legislature came up with its own solution to strife in the Tidewater Fisheries Commission today.

Both the senate and house of the fifth annual model general assembly conducted by the YMCA approved a bill to revamp the commission—which some members of the real Legislature tried unsuccessfully last year.

"Senator" Arthur Shanklin of Millersville and "Delegate" James W. Rogers of Sparrows Point introduced the measure.

It would junk the present commission entirely, create a new department and a five-member commission to establish policy. The Governor would appoint the commissioners and they would name a director.

All members of the commission wouldn't have to be Marylanders. Two would be chosen the boys decided after some lively floor arguments, "for their interest in and knowledge of tidewater resources, without regard to their business, profession or place of residence."

One would have to be a college graduate in biology, another a seafood packer and the other someone outside the seafood industry. None would be paid, except for expenses.

The bill, written in genuine legislative style, landed in the hopper without advance notice. It wasn't among the 87 mimegraphed in books passed out to the 190 youthful lawmakers when they assembled here yesterday.

After scanning the document, one State House habitue guessed "they must have lobbyists here, too." There wasn't a one in sight.

The tidewater "ripper" was one of a flock of bills sent to "Gov." Arthur F. Greenbaum, 17-year-old Baltimore City college student.

This was sponsored by Frank J. Cramblitt and John Gist of Sparrows Point. Cramblitt disclosed he fought against a similar bill last year.

It would allow no restrictions because of race, creed or color "in places of public accommodations, resorts and amusements." The House vote, after a long debate, was 67 to 54.

The boy Senate beat down a proposal to scrap the retail sales tax. Earl Kinsley of Baltimore, its author, orated energetically for the repealer, but his side lost, 20-13, and it was tabled.

Both Houses put their approval on a bill to require the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to refund its outstanding bonds and issue revenue bonds instead.

This, George Yost of Chevy Chase said, would release "Montgomery and Prince Georges counties from any and all liability for the payment of the commission's bonds."

The agency could apply to the Public Utilities Commission for "Equitable rates" for water and swage services and facilities.

After the session, the young Governor and legislators toured the Naval Academy.

Wallace Group Hits District Plea for Emergency Powers

Washington supporters of Henry Wallace issued a strongly worded protest yesterday against the District's proposed loyalty program and the Commissioners' request for broad emergency powers.

Describing the actions as "shocking," the executive committee of the Washington Committee for Wallace urged District residents in a resolution adopted Thursday night to "raise their voices in protest before it becomes too late."

If Congress granted the emergency powers asked by the Commissioners, the board declared, the city fathers could use them to requisition personal and private property, to compel evacuation of any part of the District and to appoint special police without pay."

"It is significant," the resolution continued, "that this brazen attack upon democracy in the Nation's Capital is accompanied by a plan for roughshod loyalty checking of all District employes."

The board deplored the possibility that the program might be in the hands of the police, "whatever the record of the Police Department may have been in the past."

Passover Takes on Prophetic Significance

For millions of Jews the age-old celebration of Passover, which opened last night with prayer, ritual and feast, is of special, prophetic significance this year.

Passover—the eight-day Festival of Freedom—marks the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt and the tyranny of the Pharaohs more than 3000 years ago. It commemorates their 40-year march under the leadership of Moses, and the ulti- mate attainment of their goal, a homeland for a free Israel in the land around Jerusalem.

The first two nights of Passover —yesterday and today—are marked by a ceremonial service, called the Seder. Near the close of the Seder, the participants sing out a prayer. "L'shonoh Habbo'oh B'Yerusholoyim."

The brief prayer expresses a hope:

"Next year is Jerusalem!"

An ardent Zionist can find many a prophetic omen in these days—events parallel or akin to events surrounding the Exodus in ancient times. For example:

The enslavement and deliberate wiping out of the Israelites by the Pharaohs; the persecution and annihilation of the Jews by Hitler.

The miraculous crossing of the Red Sea, and the destruction of the pursuing armies; the miraculous escape of hundreds of Jews from concentration camps, and the destruction of the Axis armies.

The years of wandering in the wilderness before reaching Jerusalem; the months of waiting in the displaced persons camps of Europe, in the detention stockades of Cyprus.

Lower Chick Sales Seen Lifting Eggs

Richmond, Va., April 23 (AP).—Forecasts that slowed early chick sales this spring and which are likely to bring a shortage of market eggs next fall were reported here by the Virginia State Poultry Federation.

As a result, poultrymen have an excellent opportunity to cash in on high egg prices next fall by starting chicks right away, according to R. Frank Frazier, federation executive secretary.

Frazier reported that in the Nation at large chicks hatched in January and February this year were 17 per cent fewer than a year earlier and that the number of eggs in incubators March 1 was 26 per cent under the figure for the same date in 1497.

Some sizeable mid-western hatcheries had closed for the remainder of the year by early this month, he said.

In Virginia, Frazier continued, the number of chicks hatched in February was six per cent less than in February 1497 and the number of eggs in incubators on March 1 was 17 per cent under the number a year earlier.

Ben Hogan Joins Capital Open Stars

BEELINE BEN HOGAN, one of the most consistent money winners of the last decade, yesterday joined the imposing list of golfers who will compete in the $12,500 National Capital Open tourney which starts Thursday at Prince Georges.

Hogan, now completely recovered from a back injury which forced him to remain idle for several weeks, telephoned his acceptance from Hershey, Pa., yesterday. With Hogan in, the field for the 72-hole event is one of the most star-spangled ever to complete in a tournament.

Other topnotchers in the cast are Lloyd Mangrum, defending champion; Lew Worsham of Washington, National Open champion; Jimmy Demaret, leading money winner last year; Bobby Locke, the South African stylist; Henry Cotton, British pro king; Carey Middlecoff, Johnny Palmer, Dutch Harrison, Jimmy Thomson, Lawson Little, Bob Hamliton, Harry Todd, Chandler Harper, Herman Keiser and Clayton Heafner.

Heading the amateur brigade are Frank Stranahan, the muscle man from Toledo, and Dick Chapman, one-time amateur king.

Sammy Snead, now resting at his home course at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., hasn't definitely decided whether he'll play, but Host Pro Al Houghton is confident Slammer will be there when they tee off Thursday.

Hogan has played in only two tournaments—the Masters at Augusta and the pro-am at White Sulphur Springs last week—since his ailment. He did not participate last year when Mangrum, the former Open titlist, fired a sensatoinal 269, 19 under par, to win the inaugural.

Early arrivals Hamilton, Eric Monti and Dave Dauglas of Wilmington, Del., recent winner of the Orlando Open, practiced at Prince Georges yesterday.

More of the crack field, including Locke, Worsham and possibly Hogan, are expected by Sunday for proctice rounds.

The tourney proper opens Thursday when the first of the 18-hole rounds will be played. On Wednesday, however, a picked group of pros will conduct a clinic with Jimmy Demaret, a capable fellow with a mike as well as a midiron, in charge.

Sisler Bangs Two Homers As Phils Wallop Bums, 10-2

Brooklyn, April 23 (AP).—Effective pitching by Blix Donnelly plus heavy hitting by Dick Sisler and Richie Ashburn enabled the Philadelphia Phillies to rout the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10-2, today.

A crowd of 25,103 fans turned out for the Dodgers' first home game but was in for a bad afternoon as the Phils quickly put the issue out of doubt as it turned out with three runs in the first inning.

Ashburn, who collected three hits and scored three runs, started with a single. He later stole home on the front end of a double steal with the first run of the game.

Lefty Joe Hatten, who beat the Phils six times last year without suffering a loss, started for the Dodgers. He gave up three more runs in the fourth and another in the fifth before leaving for a pinch-hitter.

Sisler, recently obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, accounted for the Phils final three runs. He homered off Clyde King in the seventh and smacked another four-bagger in the ninth off Rookie Johnny Hall with one aboard.

Meanwhile, Donnelly checked the Dodgers with eight scattered hits. He gave up a run in the sixth when recruit First Socker Preston Ward tripled and scored on Pee Wee Reese's fly ball.

In the eighth the Dodgers scored their final run on a walk and singles by Reese and Billy Cox.

Bobby Worsham Paces Deacon Golfers

Durham, N. C., April 23.—Bubby Worsham of Washington, D. C., younger brother of National Open Champion Lew Worsham, led the Wake Forest golf team to a 15-12 victory over Duke here today.

It was the first time Wake Forest had ever beaten Duke at golf and snapped Duke's 11-year home course win streak.

Bosox Blank Yanks, 4 to 0; Ted Homers

By Jack Hand

New York, April 23 (AP).—Mickey Harris, a sore-armed flop last year, hurled the Boston Red Sox into the win column for the first time this season with a five-hit, 4-0 shutout that spoiled the New York Yankees' home opening today.

With the help of Commissioner A. B. Chandler and American League President Will Harridge, the Yanks hoisted the world championship pennant before the game. After that they raised little but pop flies to the dismay of 44,619 fans at the Yankee Stadium's silver anniversary.

It was a triumphant return for Joe McCarthy, who switched to the visiting dugout as Boston Manager after leading the Yanks to many flags. Behind Harris' classy tossing, the Sox looked like the contenders they are supposed to be.

Shea Too Wild

Frank (Spec) Shea, the Yanks, sensational rookie of 1947, didn't have it in his first test of the sophomore year. He gave up all four runs before he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth.

Ted Williams, booed loudly on his first two trips, silenced his critics with a homer into the lower right field seats with nobody on in the fifth. It was his first of the year.

Stan Spence followed up Williams' blast with a blow to right that went for a ground rules double when a lady in a red hat reached out of a box and touched the ball.

Bill Johnson's error on Vern Stephens' hard smash moved Stan to third whence he scored on Doerr's loft to DiMaggio.

Joe DiMaggio, who received the Landis Memorial Plaque as most valuable player in the league in 1947 during pregame ceremonies, had a busy day with seven putouts. But his brother Dom had eight for the Sox.

Keltner Hits Two Homers, Tribe Wins, 8-2

Detroit, April 23 (AP).—Led by the veteran Ken Keltner, who pasted two homers and drove in four runs, the Cleveland Indians belted the Detroit Tigers 8 to 2 today with a 15-hit attack good for 31 bases. The victory put Cleveland in first place in the American League.

Righthander Bob Lemon, pitching the Indians to their second victory in as many starts, scattered six Detroit hits while the Tribe was making hay at the expense of Freddie Hutchinson and two successors, humiliating the Tigers before 45,233 fans in their home opener.

Larry Doby, fleet Negro outfielder, got three of the Cleveland hits, including his first major league home run. Lemon aided his own cause by bouncing a two-run homer off the railing atop the right field screen and Manager Lou Boudreau collected three hits, including a double.

Poat Pitches Giants To Win Over Braves

Boston, April 23 (AP).—Righthander Ray Poat became the first New York Giant pitcher to go the distance today as he pitched the Giants to a 3-1 triumph over the Boston Braves.

A crowd of 11,553 fans turned out for Boston's first home game of the season but they had little to cheer about as the Giants scored twice in the first inning and virtually sewed up the game. Sid Gordon hit his second homer of the season in the third for the Giant's final run.

British Davis Cuppers Take Lead Over India

Harrogate, England, April 23 (U.P.).—Great Britain took a two to one lead over India in the opening round of the Davis Cup European zone tennis competition today when Tony Mottram and Geoffrey Paish trimmed Sumant Misra and Subh Sawhney in doubles, 6—3, 7—5, 6—2.

SHUTOUT IS SAVED—Outfielder Al Chernitzky and Catcher Joe Wapinsky collaborated in a fine play in the eighth inning to preserve George Washington's shutout in a 7-0 victory over Maryland at Griffith Stadium. Johnny Hunton of Maryland is out at the plate in the above picture as he tries to score from third on Bob Keene's fly to right. Chernitzky pegged the ball after the catch to Wapinsky who tagged Hunton as he began his slide

Blackwell Wins Second, Bucs Lose, 5-3

Cincinnati, April 23 (AP).—Cincinnati spotted Pittsburgh three runs and then came on with six extra base hits out of the eight they made to win, 5 to 3, and gave Ewell Blackwell his second victory of the year.

The star pitcher was not in the box at the finish, however, being lifted in the seventh when the Reds tied the score on pinch hitter Augie Galan's long fly. The locals went out in front as Frank Baumholtz's single scored Virgil Stallcup.

The Pirates got four of their eight hits in the first tw oframes to take a 30- lead.

Junior Board Gets Behind Johnson School Games

Almost as eager for the opening of the second annual Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball Schools on May 1 as the kids themselves are the members of the Junior Board of Commerce.

Last year, when The Washington Post-Rerceation Department schools were inaugurated, the Junior Board fellows pitched in voluntarily, organizing a motor escort to transport the Nats to the scene of the schools and also rounding up a corps of assistants.

This year they're all set again. Not only have they again agreed to drive the Nats to the 22 school diamonds and furnish other assistance, but they're also dug down and contributed $250 for equipment—bats and baseballs.

"The way we feel about this school," said Pete Chumbris of the Junior Board's baseball committee, "is that most of the fellows in our organization didn't have the opportunity to attend anything like this and we want to do all we can to help. We think it's a grand idea and you can count on us for any assistance we can possibly render."

The Nats will be at each of the 22 diamonds to show you the finer points of baseball. Then, various leagues will be organized and the championship series started. It's all free. You'll be registered and if you attend the sessions regularly you'll receive a handsomely engraved diploma signed by Ex-Redskins star Andy Farakas, school commissioner.

It's open to everybody under 17 years of age. The date for the schools (all on Saturday mornings at 10 o'clock) are May 1, May 8, May 15 and May 29. Over 50,000 kids participated in last year's sessions.

Schools will be held at the following locations:

Woodrow Wilson, Hearst, Palisades, Chevy Chase, Takoma, Langley, Taft, Turkey Thicket, Central, Rosedale, Jefferson Recreation Center, Anacostia and Fort Greble.

Banneker, West Potomac, Langston, Park Side, Kelly Miller (NE), Randall, Berry Farms, Lincoln, Union Market.

Joe Dundee Learns Television Is 'Just Around the Corner'

Baltimore, April 23 (AP).—Joe Dundee, who was world's champion welterweight boxer in 1927-29, is being more careful when he orders "drinks on the house." . . . . . .

. . Joe now a tavern owner was being interviewed between bouts on a (WMAR-TV) telecast of a wrestling show.

"Hi," said Joe as he waved into the camera for the benefit of his bartender back at the tavern. "Give everybody a drink on me."

Cards Get Two Hits, Win 1-0

Chicago, April 23 (AP).—Lefty Johnny Schmitz of the Chicago Cubs hurled a two-hitter today, but Ralph La Pointe's ninth-inning double gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 1 to 0 triumph over the Bruins in their home opener before 26,591.

Schmitz limited the Cards to Vernal Jones' scratch single in the fifth until La Pointe blasted a screaming two-bagger to left scoring Erv Dusak from first base.

Johnny fanned eight and allowed eight men to reach first, three on walks.

It was the first Cardinal run in 15 innings and left the Red Birds and Phillies tied for the National League lead, each with three victories in four starts. Harry Brecheen kept the nine Bruin hits scattered.

Colonials Avenge Loss

Pete King, G.W.'s Top Hitter, Shuts Out Maryland, 7 to 0

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

George Washington got quick revenge for its loss to Maryland Thursday when Lefty Pete King proved as proficient on the mound as he is at the plate yesterday at Griffith Stadium.

King, who doubles as an outfielder and leads the Colonial hitters, turned back the Terps with six hits for the first shutout of the local collegiate season, 7-0.

Maryland, which can trace most of its seven defeats to poor fielding, gave King a running start in the first inning when four boots handed GW two runs.

The Colonials promptly earned three runs themselves next time up. Centerfielder Bunny Citrenbaum unleashed a triple off Bobby Keene with the bases loaded. On the drive that rolled to the fence in right-center, Famulette, Kuldell and Pitcher King scored. All had hit clean singles.

King, who beat Michigan in his only other start this season, had to work for his shutout. In the eighth, Johnny Hunton went all the way to third on Catcher Joe Wapinsky's wild throw with none out. But Al Chernitzky thre whim out at the plate after taking Keene's fly.

5 Favorites Win, 2 Minus Pools Result

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, Md., April 23.—Favorite players were up to their neck in chalk here today as public choices won five races in a row. The bet-a-lot and collect-a-little boys just couldn't make mistakes, one of their picks surviving a foul claim.

The favorite parade extended right into the day's feature race when a crowd of 7000 made the Trainer F. A. Bonsal entry of Laran and Pilaster the big-money horses.

Laran not only obliged by winby 4½ lengths, but equalled the track record going the mile and 70 yards in 1:41 3/5—Georget turned in the same figure two years ago.

Flash Burn Second

King Ranch's Flash Burn was second in the feature—the Choptank Purse—and Pilaster was third. Backers of the winning entry were paid off at the rate of $4.60 for the regular two-buck bet.

The track had reason to sing the "Calumet Stables." Twice during the program management was forced to dig down and make up for minus show pools as was the case each time Citation ran here.

When In Tthe Pink won the fourth race $58,948 was played on the Bull Lea filly to run third out of a total of $62,094. The track's loss was $10,721.50. Backers of In The Pink collected a mere $2.40 win mutuel.

$284.40 Daily Double

In the fifth race, Calumet sent Beau Dandy to the post and the colt got home a neck in front of Bobanet Stable's Blue Holly. However, the latter was in close quarters coming into the stretch and Don Padgett blamed Hedley Woodhouse, Beau Dandy's rider. The stewards didn't see it Padgett's way and flashed the "official" and a $3.40 mutuel.

On this race, $26,947 of a total of $31,675 was bet to show on Beau Dandy and the track had to dig down for $2777.60 to make the $220 show mutuel, the minimum allowed by Maryland law.

The five favorites in a row began with R. B. Archer's Miss Gossip winning the second race at a $5.20 mutuel. The program had begun with a $44.60 winner, R. J. Surgi's Zekara Boy, and the daily double paid $284.40.

Michigan Wins Twice at Penn; Dillard, Gordien Drake Stars

Des Moines, April 23 (AP).—Seven records—five of them in the high school division—were shattered today in the opening program of the thirty-ninth annual Drake relays.

Dillard ran the 220-yard anchor in which he was timed unofficially in 20.7 seconds. The Baldwin-Wallace quartet was timed in 1:26.6, beating the same school's meet mark of 1:27 set last year.

Gordien Eclipses Blozis' Mark

Gordien achieved the record on his sixth heave to wipe out the former record of 161.45 feet established by Al Blozis of Georgetown, in 1941. Gordien's toss, however, was considerably short of his winning marks last year in the National Collegiate and National AAU meets, of which he is champion.

Dillard, victorious in 54 consecutive hurdle races, easily qualified for the finals of the 120-yard high hurdles tomorrow, breaking the tape 6 yards ahead of William Fleming, Notre Dame.

He loafed to the finish in 14.7, six tenths of a second slower than his winning performance at Drake a year ago. Bill Porter, Northwestern, made the best time in the hurdle trials, winning his heat in 14.6.

Thompson Anchors Texas' Win

Jerry Jefchak, Drake, cheered the home folks with a sparkling victory in the 2-mile run. He defeated Dick Kilty, Minnesota, Western Conference indoor champion, by four yards in a staggering finish. Jefchak's time was 9:39.7.

Texas won the university distance medley in which Jerry Thompson ran the anchor mile. Texas defeated Indiana, defending champion, by more than 30 yards. Nearly all this advantage was compiled by Thompson, voted the outstanding athlete of the 1947 Drake Carnival.

GW High Wins Title In Relays

Philadelphia, April 23.—George Washington High School of Alexandria, Va., captured the high school medley relay championship of America today to highlight performances of Washington area schools.

George Washington, comprising Co-Captain Stewart Anderson, Michael Davis, Edward Johnson and Bobby Jones, covered the distance in 7 minutes 55.3 seconds.

The event was run in three sections and the results were determined on a time basis. Cardinal Hayes, of New York, winner of the third section in 7:55.6, was second, and Christopher Columbus, also of New York, victor in the second section, was third in 7:58.2.

Jones Anchor Leg Run Decides

A great anchor leg by Jones provided the margin of triumph as he raced a beautiful mile. Anderson ran the 880, Davis the 440, and Johnson the 220.

Armstrong, Phelps, and Cardozo all competed in the high school quarter mile relay championship of America. And out of 75 teams in the 150 qualifying heats, Cardozo and Phelps were two of the four to gain berths in the finals.

Cardozo Second, Phelps Third

But there the Washington schools soon found themselves outdistanced by Brooklyn Boys School which set a new national and carnival standard, winning the event in 42.0. Cardozo was second, and Phelps third.

With Samuel Wright, James Strivers, Raymond Hill, and Zebebee English handling the baton, Phelps sprinted to victory in its heat in 44.7 to conkuer Princeton, N. J., and Howard, Del.

Cardozo was even faster, whizzing around the oval in 43,9 as Joseph Walker, Bud Greene, Rudolph McGoines, and Marcellus Boston represented the purple and white.

TomorrowCardozo will go after the two-mile championship of America and also is entered in a mile relay against a field of 12 including Armstrong. Phelps is also entered in another mile relay.

Charley Fonville, weight star, and Herb Barten, the Big Nine half-mile champion, set the pace for the Michigan athletes as they turned in the only double triumph of the day.

Closest to Michigan in all-around performance was a collection of Air Force and Army ground force stars now training for the Olympics at Lackland Air Base near San Antonio, Tex.

A crowd of 10,000 braved a threat of rain in wind-blown Franklin Field, many of them expecting to see Fonville toss the 16-pound shot clear out of the park.

Cracks Meet Mark

The 20-year-old Negro didn't come close to the world record shattering heave of 58 feet ¼ inch he achieved at the Kansas Relays last week, but he flipped the iron ball an even 56 feet to wipe out an 8-year-old relay mark.

The winning toss, made on the fourth effort, was nearly 5 feet better than that of his closest opponent and it bettered the meet mark of 55 feet 5⅜ inches set by the late Al Blozis of Georgetown in 1940.

Fonville almost pulled off a double victory. He was leading in the discus throw with a toss of 160 feet ¼ inch until Vic Frank of Yale hurled the platter 160 feet 7 inches on his last try.

Barten stepped the 880-yard anchor leg in 1:53 flat, coming from behind after losing a 5-yard lead, to lead Michigan to victory in the spring medley relay.

Barten Regains Lead to Win

The event was run in two sections and New York University had triumphed in the first half in 3:28.3, with Reggie Pearman, National AAU 800-meter champion, coming from behind in the anchor leg which he completed in 1:55.

Lackland's Army trainees produced a surprise winner in the 440-yard relay as Sgt. Robert Watanabe, Sgt. Joseph Payne, Private Billy Anderson and Lieut. William Carter triumphed in 41.9.

Anderson, son of the radio comedian, Rochester, also placed second in the 120-yard high hurdles, losing by a step to Tom Mitchell of Indiana, who was clocked in 14.8.

Tech Routs Champion Colts, 17 to 5

Western Scores Early, Upsets Central, 10-2

Western's Red Raiders surprised Central's Vikings with a five-run first inning and then coasted to a 10-2 upset victory yesterday in an Interhigh League game at Western Stadium. Each now has a 1-1 league record.

Norm Wacker, George Holmes and John Folk paced the Raiders. Wacker cracked out a single, double and triple and drove in three runs. Shortstop Holmes handled nine fielding chances without an error. And Folk gave up only four hits, all of them during the last two innings. One of Central's blows was a home run by Bob Johnson, his second in two loop games.

Roosevelt Loses To Wilson, 7-0

Don Snider's pitching allowed Roosevelt to hit only two balls out of the infield, and his Woodrow Wilson teammates pounded out a 7-0 Interhigh League victory yesterday at Wilson. The winners, with a 2-0 record, are in a tie for first place with Eastern.

Those two outfield blows amounted to Roosevelt's only hits. Only two Wilson players, Catcher Don Hall and First Baseman Jack Whitcomb registered putouts for Wilson.

High Roundup:

Willie Zehring Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Game As George Washington High Beats Fairfax, 5-0

Willie Zehring, from G. W. High of Alexandria, yesterday entered the scholastic hall of fame when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Fairfax, taking a 5-0 decision in a Northern Virginia Class A League game at the winners' park.

Only four reached base off the sophomore right-hander, two on walks, another when hit by a pitched ball and the fourth on an error. Zehring struck out 10 and allowed no one on base until the fifth.

A sensational catch by Second Baseman Jake Dohner in the seventh saved the no-hitter for Zehring whose mound opponent, Larry Fones, went the full seven innings and allowed only six safeties.

The triumph earned G. W. a tie for the conference lead with Washington-Lee High of Arlington.

Cabbies Honor Joe Harrington At Nat-Tribe Game

Lieut. Joseph Harrington, recently retired hack inspector, will be guest of honor May 8, when the Nats meet the Cleveland Indians in Griffith Stadium.

Responsible for arranging for "Joe Harrington Day" are Washington's cabbies, who for many years have looked on "Uncle Joe" as friend and benefactor.

They have collected enough funds to present him with a 1948 Dodge sedan, which will be given him during the game. He will sit in the Presidential box surrounded by his hacker friends to watch the two teams play.

Collected funds, over and above the cost of the auto, will be put into a trust fun dwhich he can use as he wants to.

To the cab drivers, it is just a small way of thanking Joe for the many kind things he did for them during his years as hack inspector. Joe is in ill health and they want him to know they're behind him, just as he backed them up at one time, a spokesman explained.

U. S. Terms Six Dairies 'Reluctant' Plotters

Milk Producers, Chestnut Farms, Derrick Assigned Heaviest Blame

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Six of the nine defendants named in the milk marketing conspiracy allegedly under way here since 1930 were "reluctant conspirators," the Government declared yesterday.

Robert H. Winn, special assistant to the Attorney General, said during argument on legal motions in the case in District Court:

"As in most antitrust cases, there are some reluctant conspirators . . . except for the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, Bruce B. Derrick, its secretary-treasurer, and Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, the others in this case are reluctant conspirators."

Three Principal Targets

Other defendants are Thompson's, Richfield, Wakefield, Alexandria, and Harvey dairies, and Safeway Stores which operates Lucerne Milk Co.

The statement by Winn, chief prosecutor in the antitrust case, indicates the Justice Department will aim its heaviest fire at the three defendants singled out.

Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, according to the grand jury indictment returned March 8, buys and resells about 47 per cent of all milk supplied to the Washington metropolitan area. The indictment alleges a conspiracy to suppress competition in the sale of milk and fix prices.

Justice Richmond B. Keech yesterday denied motions by Alexandria Dairy and Harvey Dairy for separate trials, and also denied an Alexandria Dairy motion to transfer its trial to Virginia.

During the first day of arguments on a barrage of motions in the case, Justice Keech withheld decision on a motion by John Hillyard, attorney for Wakefield Dairy, for dismissal of the indictment on grounds of legal "duplicity."

In another motion, Attorney William E. Leahy, who recently entered the case with Attorney William J. Huges, jr., as counsel for Bruce B. Derrick, moved to dismiss the indictment, terming it "fatally defective."

Cooperative Called Immune

Leahy charged the indictment as, ". . . bad in substance in that it charged acts by an agricultural cooperative (the producers association which are immune from prosecution under the antitrust laws by reason of the Clayton Act, the Capper-Volstead Act, the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and the decisions of the courts."

He said, "The Government must concede the legality of the existence of this association. But once organized, it would deprive it (the association of any power to act, or act successfully." Any restraints involved in the association's contracts to supply milk to dairies, said Leahy, were "merely incidental and reasonable."

Another motion, filed by Attorneys Roger J. Whiteford and John J. Wilson for Chestnut Farms, sought a month's postponement of the May 5 trial date set in the case.

They declared it would be "humanly impossible" to prepare a defense by that time in "a case of this magnitude." Arguments on these motions will continue on Monday.

Use of Bonds To Cover Union Shortage Told

War bonds purchased for the union by Larry Kelly were used to replace "missing" funds, an accountant told a District Court jury yesterday.

The testimony was offered by Clyde B. Stovall in the embezzlement trial of five former building union officials and a builder.

Nine defendants went on trial April 13 on charges of conspiracy to embezzle between $75,000 and $100,000. Three were freed in a court-directed verdict Monday.

Special Prosecutor Leo A. Rover, in yesterday's session, charged $21,000 in union funds were "missing" in an audit by Stovall. Later Stovall testified he was unable to account for that much money in union books.

He said that when he started investigating, he found three of six war bounds, totaling $4400 were missing. When he notified one of the defendants, George Morgan, a former business agent and financial secretary of Local 74 of the Hod Carriers Union, Morgan brought the bonds in.

Rover charged that a $3600 check, earmarked from the general fund of the union to the building fund, had been used to cover a $3600 shortage in the civilian defense fund.

Kelly, alleged ringleader of the conspiracy, disappeared in 1943 during the grand jury probe here and has been reported dead.

Court Rules For Bondsmen Tightened

The Municipal Court yesterday stiffened its rules concerning persons wishing to be bondsmen and the methods attorneys may use to get continuances in cases.

Henceforth, bondsman applicants must state on their application whether they have been arrested or convicted of any offense. Previously, applicants only had to state whether they had ever been convicted of crimes of moral turpitude.

The bondsman applicants must also submit to fingerprinting, the court announced.

Lawyers now must get permission from the court when they want a continuance. Previously, the lawyers could agree between themselves concerning a continuance without notifying the court in advance. This ruling was made to prevent jamming the court calendar in the civil division.

Japanese Beetle War in D. C. Urged By Commissioners

The Commissioners called on residents to treat all sodded areas to "eliminate the grubs and thus the mature beetles." The U. S. Department of Agriculture, they pointed out, recommends that such sod treatment be done in April.

The Commissioners issued the proclamation after receiving a letter from Attorney Thomas E. Lodge, writing for the Federation of Citizens Associations, the American University Park Citizens Association and the American University Park Garden Club.

Light Fixture Upkeep Is Held Landlords' Job

Maintenance of electrical fixtures in an apartment is as much of a landlord's obligation as upkeep of plumbing and heating equipment, the U. S. Court of Appeals held yesterday.

The decision, reversing a Municipal Court of Appeals verdict, was given in favor of Richardson S. Gladden and his wife, Hazel, of 100 19th st. ne., against Walker & Dunlop, Inc., a real estate firm.

A Municipal Court jury allowed the Gladdens $1750 damages for injuries Mrs. Gladden suffered when she leaned against an electric switch in their apartment. The corporation appealed and the Municipal Court of Appeals reversed the lower court.

In upholding the Municipal Court verdict, the Appeals Court yesterday held that the tenant who uses the electrical devices "is usually not expected to maintain them but only to notify the landlord when they appear to be out of order.

"A landlord is not an insurer of the system, but is liable only for action or inaction that is negligent in view of what he . . . knows or reasonably should know," the decision stated. Attorneys for the Gladdens were Arthur L. Willcher and W. E. Cumberland.

Verbon E. Kemp, executive director of the State chamber, yesterday announced that Kelley has appointed Wilfred A. Roper, Richmond banker and immediate past president of the State chamber as national councillor to the United States Chamber of Commerce, whose sessions will be held during the week. Kelley also appointed nine Virginians as official delegates to the meeting. These include John R. Kingman, Verbon E. Kemp and Roper, of Richmond; Henry W. Anderson and O. 1st Helicopter Charge Is Filed Here by CAA

Charging low-altitude operation in the restricted area of mid-town Washington, the violation names the helicopter owned by Roto-Wing Air Service, Inc., piloted by Roland Roelofs.

CAA witnesses, including Metropolitan and White House police and others, said the craft yesterday was "flying as low as 200 feet . . . over or near the White House and close to the Capitol building."

J. Robert Fischel, corporation president, said he had verbal approval of a CAA official to fly at lower altitudes if the pilot could be sure he was high enough for a safe landing.

"The helicopter can make a safe landing in a small area even with a dead engine," Fischel said. The pilot said the closest he got to the White House was three blocks.

Maximum cvill penalty for the violation is $1000, plus suspension or revocation of the airman's license, CAA said. The report goes to New York for recommendation.

Former District Woman Held In Slaying

Winchester, Va., April 23.—A 43-year-old former Washington woman was held today without bail in the Frederick County Jail at Winchester, Va., charged with the murder of a 26-year-old Army veteran.

The woman, Mrs. Louise Burke, who used to operate a rooming house in Northeast Washington, was held in the slaying of Paul R. Berry, former Bolling Field soldier who died of a .22 rifle bullet wound in the head. No date has ben set for a preliminary hearing.

Jealousy was the motive for the slaying, according to Sheriff Robert DeHaven of Frederick County. DeHaven said the woman had sobbed out a confession.

Found Outside Kitchen

Berry was found shot about 5 a. m. Wednesday morning, sprawled on the ground outside the kitchen window of the 13-room farm house where he had been living with Mrs. Burke since his discharge from the Army in October, 1947, DeHaven said.

He died 10 hours later without regaining consciousness in Winchester Memorial Hospital.

The sheriff said he recovered the emptied rifle in the house, which is located near an abandoned manganese mine property, 5 miles south of Star Tannery and 20 miles west of Strasberg.

Spent bullets which missed their apparent target were found lodged in steps and around the house, the sheriff said.

Quarreled After Party

Mrs. Burke told the sheriff, he said, that she and Berry returned home about midnight Tuesday after attending a party in the home of a neighbor, Pearly Mayhew, a former miner. They quarreled, according to her statement to the sheriff, over attentions she said he had paid to another woman.

Mrs. Burke's second husband, William P. Burke, salesman, of 601 I st. ne., said they were married in July, 1942, and have been separated a year.

She was divorced from W. J. Whitaker, former head waiter in a seafood restaurant here, many years ago, according to a son, William L. Whitaker, 23, printing company messenger, of 1343 L st. nw., and a friend of Berry.

Burke leaves a wife, Abboth Berry; his parents and grandparents, all of Syracuse, N. Y. His body was shipped yesterday to Syracuse, where the funeral will be held.

Foster Care Limitation Is Approved For District

Board of Welfare Now Supporting 1109 Children, Must Keep Rolls to 1100

The Board of Public Welfare yesterday approved limiting to 1100 the number of children for whom it can pay board in foster homes and institutions.

The board said it no longer can add new children to the rolls unless others are dropped. The Department of Welfare at present supports 1109 children.

In approving the limitation the board backed up Acting Welfare Director Raymond Clapp who set the limit a month ago as an "economy measure."

Sreening Under Way

Clapp said that only cases of an emergency nature can be added to the public assitance rolls. A careful screening is under way to see if some of the children can be returned to relatives for care, he said.

"We are having to agree to less desirable arrangements for children," Clapp said.

He pointed out that the welfare department is supporting 131 more children now than it was last July.

The preesnt level of 1100 can be maintained only if "savings in the other divisions of the welfare department can be transferred to foster care," Clapp said.

"Temporarily we have been forced to discontinue placing of infants from maternity homes."

New Nomination Asked

He said unwed mothers will have to make provisions for their children without welfare aid.

The board received a letter from the Commissioners stating that the board's nomination of Clapp as welfare director was unsatisfactory and asking for additional nominations.

Board Chairman Edgar L. Morris said that he will call a special meeting within the next several weeks to consider applications.

"The board is starting from scratch," Morris said. "We have no special candidates."

Other Board Actions

In other actions the board:

Accepted an offer from the Reciprocity Club to provide eye care for children at the Industrial Home School and an offer fro mthe Salvation Army of a two-week outing at its summer camp near Quantico for all girls and smaller boys. Forwarded to the Commissioners a request for $5500 to repair sagging floors and a clogged sewer at the Industrial Home School.

Noted that on Monday a new $32,000 central heating plant at the Blue Plains Home for the Aged will go into service.

Received a report from Paul F. Kirby, assistant director of the welfare department, that two consultants have approved in principle plans for the development of a center for children at Jolly Acres, near Laurel.

The consultants, Dr. Herbert D. Williams, director of the Juvenile Welfare Board, Pinellas County, Fla., and E. L. Johnstone, superintendent of the New Jersey State Colony for Feeble-minded, suggested that small units of not more than 18 children be set up in individual buildings. Moderate-priced construction for a life of 25 years was recommended.

D'Alesandro Appeals To Building Inspectors

Baltimore, April 23 (AP).—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro heard a report today that the city's corps of building inspectors was planning to resign in a body. He appealed to the men personally to "stay on your jobs."

The resignation report apparently was based on the current grand jury investigation of GI housing in the city. The grand jury has returned charges against four of the inspectors since the investigation started.

Bill Provides Renaming Of Chopawamsic Park

Chopawamsic Park—near the Marine base at Quantico, Va.—would be renamed Prince William Forest Park under a bill approved yesterday by a House Public Lands Subcommittee.

He is Charles W. Taylor, 212 D st. nw. His alleged henchman in the kidnap-robbery was declared insane prior to a trial.

Taylor was convicted of brutally beating and robbing Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Jones, both more than 50 years old, after forcing them into their car near Union Station. The holdup netted Taylor $6. The victims were driven away in the car, but escaped by jumping out of the moving vehicle. Sentencing was by Justice David A. Pine.

Touma Retrial Case Goes to Jury Today

Case of Joseph P. Touma, 41, being retired on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with an April 1947 traffic death, will go to a Municipal Court jury this morning for consideration.

In final arguments yesterday, Touma's attorney, Jack Politz, contended that his client, through no negligence of his own, was in a collision with another car as a result of which Touma's taxicab went out of control and struck Joe M. Basile, 57.

Assistant United States Attorney Richard Roberts argued that Touma was driving while under the influence of alcohol, was speeding and lacked sleep, and that these factors caused the fatal accident.

In the previous trial, held late last year, Touma, who resides at 4313 Kansas ave. nw., was granted a mistrial. The fatal accident occurred at 11th and K sts. nw.

D. C. Budget Decision May Turn on City School Needs

Bates to Receive Facilities Report Of Trade Board Early Next Week

Washington's schools needs are expected shortly to be made a central issue in Congress' decision on how to make ends meet in District financing for the next year.

One end of the financing problem is a budget bill expected to total about 101 million dollars. District Appropriations Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.) said the bill is expected to reach the House week after next. It will be a deficit budget, some 6 million dollars more than the revenue that present laws would give the city.

At the other end of the financing picture is Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.), whose House District fiscal affairs subcommittee will take first crack at deciding how revenue is to be raised to meet the budget.

Report Due Soon

Bates said yesterday that a first step in approaching the revenue question would be to receive early next week from Washington Board of Trade officials a report on school facilities, which that organization has prepared.

Officials said the report had been drawn up by a special committee that has been at work since last year and has visited every public school building in the District. The report of their survey has been turned in to the Board of Trade's directors, but officials said it would not be made public except by board action.

It has also been placed in the hands of Maj. Gen. David McCoach, jr., former District Engineer Commissioner and now chairman of the board's committee on municipal finance. Bates said he had talked to McCoach and expected to receive the school report early next week.

Last year, school building needs became the center of a hard-hitting dispute in which Horan and Bates were on opposite sides.

Called for Cut

Rencently Bates has called for a two-million-dollar cut in the budget for next year, particularly n nconstruction items.

Horan's group has shown no indication that it would make such a cut. Instead, it has given sympathetic attention to requests for additional school building money in some areas.

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) has made it clear that he will support a program for adequate school facilities here.

Bates said yesterday he would not move on the revenue problem until the full House Appropriations Committee had acted on the city budget bill.

"There's no urgency," he commented. "We can put through a tax bill with dispatch when we know what is to be done."

3. Columbia Institution for the Deaf, $282,400 for operating expenses.

4. St. Elizabeths Hospital, $1,573,000 fo roperating expenses, $163,000 in cash and $2,950,000 in contract authorizations for construction.

5. Public health research facilities at Bethesda, Md., $5,630,000 in contract authorizations, and five million dollars in appropriations for construction. Funds for operating expenses of the National Institute of Health were fixed at $13,670,000, and for the National Cancer Institute at 14 million dollars with another eight million dollars in contract authorizations.

6. Washington National Airport $1,185,000 for operating expenses, and $1,835,000 for an addition to the terminal building.

7. For Federal District and Appeals Court buildings here, $7800 for routine repairs.

The airport and court funds are in the State-Justice-Commerce-Judiciary appropriation bill. The other Washington funds are in the Labor-Federal security money bill. All the local items, approved by the House, were left unchanged by the Senate Appropriations group, an action which spells their final approval by Congress.

Examiner Baffled

Snyder Death Secret Still A Puzzle

An equity examiner was unable to determine at a hearing in Rockville yesterday the question of who died first in the triple slaying November 23, 1946, of Ross H. Snyder, his wife, and foster daughter.

At the hearing, held to assist Montgomery Circuit Court in ruling on distribution of Snyder's $43,000 estate, a confessioin by Robert Snyder, 14, was introduced as evidence.

Robert, now serving a life term in the Maryland Penitentiary, said in the confession he blasted his father with the shotgun, then Mrs. Snyder and his foster sister, Jane Ann, 12.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County coroner, testified there was nothing to indicate who died first and there was nothing to support Robert's statement to police.

Attorneys contended that if Jane Ann died first, the dead woman's mother, Mrs. Margaret Russell should get the money. If she was second or last to die, the estate should be distributed among Snyder's relatives, they said.

Adm. Woodson Dies on Coast; Was Judge Advocate General

Rear Admiral Walter Browne Woodson, 66, USN, retired, former Judge Advocate General of the Navy, died Thursday in San Diego, Calif., it was learned here yesterday.

Admiral Woodson, who retired in 1943, maintained a local residence at 2304 E st. nw., as well as a home in Coronado, Calif.

A native of Lynchburg, Va., he was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1905. While there he was a member of the academy baseball and boxing teams.

He found time while on duty in the office of the Judge Advocate General as a junior officer to obtain a bachelor of law degree from George Washington University in 1914. Subsequently he was admitted to practice in the District Court, United States Court of Appeals for the District and the United States Supreme Court.

He married the former Ruth Halford of Washington, who survives him. They had three children, Walter B., jr., and Halford, Naval Academy graduates, and Ruth, who served in the WAC during World War II.

Admiral Woodson served three tours of duty in the Judge Advocate General's office before assuming the Navy's top legal post in 1938, from which he was retired for disability after five years. In that capacity he strove to increase the number of courts-martial handled and to simplify court procedures as much as possible.

He has been quoted that most wartime infractions of discipline, particularly among younger men, were caused by homesickness. Because of this, he felt that rehabilitation rather than punishment was required in many cases.

Despite his record of achievement as a naval law expert, the admiral found ample opportunity to serve as a "seagoing officer." He served as ship executive officer, destroyer division commander, destroyer force chief of staff, ship commander and fleet chief of staff. He also was naval aide to President Roosevelt and held a top post in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Admiral Woodson was decorated by the Swedish government with the new Sweden Medal for courtesies shown the crown prince during his visit to the United States in 1938. He also was awarded the Victory Medal with Grand Fleet Clasp, the Cuban Pacification Medal and the American Defense Medal.

Peru Awards Sun Order; Paul Healy Tells Story Of Striped Pants Set

By Marie McNair

PERU'S shining Order of the Sun—medal and ribband— was placed about George Maurice Morris' starched white collar at a reception yesterday at the Peruvian Embassy, given by the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Ferreyros.

MRS. McNAIR

The decoration bestowed by the Peruvian government for Mr. Morris' work with the Inter-American Bar Association meeting in Lima last winter, was presented to him by the Ambassador, who gave to Mrs. Helen L. Clagett the same award.

Mr. Morris, who was made a grand master of the Order of the Sun, is chairman of the executive committee of the Inter-American Bar Association and is speaker of the House of Deputies of the International Bar Association. He is a former president of the American Bar Association.

Mrs. Clagett is chief of the Latin-American Division of the law library of the Library of Congress and was reporter general of the conference held in Lima last winter.

Mrs. Morris was present to see her husband decorated. She wore a black gown with a jacket lined in flowered print and a black hat trimmed with feathers. The hostess was gowned in a long dress of black faille with a gay green sash and she wore an orchid pinned at her shoulder. Mrs. Clagett wore black and white print with a small black hat.

Among those in the gathering were W. Roy Vallance of the State Department, George Owen of the Peruvian desk of the State Department, and a number of the bar who attended the conference in Lima.

"WATCHDOG of the Striped Pants Set" is the name Paul Healy has given in his article to the four protocol officers of the State Department about whom he writes in the May issue of Coronet.

To Washington-wise readers what Mr. Healy has to say might not be news. But it's an entertaining, well done piece with an anecdote or two to brighten it up, and an inside glimpse into how the wheels run in the Government's greeter department.

Stanley Woodward, Chief of Protocol, he describes as tall, lean, aristocratic looking, who was trained at many American embassies abroad for his post. Raymond Muir, Assistant Chief, put in nine years as ceremonial officer at the White House before going over to State. Charles Spruks and Edward Nash make up the foursome.

It was Ray Muir's job to round up the Japanese diplomats the day after Pearl Harbor and arrange for their shipment to Hot Springs, Va. He later put them on board the Swedish liner, Gripsholm, accompanied them to a rendezvous in Portuguese West Africa where they were to be exchanged for American diplomats caught in Japan. In spite of the fact that they took over the management of several functions of the authorities, the trip was uneventful compared to the return voyage with Allied diplomats aboard. Each one of them expected the best accommodations on an already overcrowded ship, the Latin Americans protesting loudest of all.

In his report to his chief, the late George Summerlin, Mr. Muir wrote, "Due to the large number of passengers and the limited first-class space, the Brazilian Ambassador and the Colombian Minister had been assigned a room together. The latter protested vigorously, and in order to save the feelings of both gentlemen the undersigned gave up his cabin to the Colombian Minister."

SENATOR Theodore Francis Green, gentleman of the old school, can turn a pretty phrase in the twinkling of an eye. On viewing Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner's "Leaning Tower of Pisa hat," he was heard to remark, "Your hat is stunning!"

The great lady—of whom there are few left—was wearing a white hat with spirals of smoke-gray tulle in which nestle two tiny white birds.

"This should be a hat story," said a mere male at Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Clayton Adams' cocktail party on Thursday in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Lee de Forest of Chicago. Mrs. Miner's hat was but one of a dozen that day which defy description.

There were cabbage roses in red and white on Mrs. Conger Pratt's hat; Mrs. Roy St. Lewis wore apple green straw with pink roses and green veil tied in a bow under her chin.

Hostess and guest of honor were just about the most conservative women in the room. Both wore black frocks and black hats, Madelaine Adams with a rakish hat on her smooth dark hair and Mrs. de Forest in a becoming brimmed model.

MRS. CURTIS SHEARS is a lady after my own heart. She likes her parties small. That's the reason she has decided to give three teas for her friends to see her new apartment. For nine years Mr. and Mrs. Shears have been residents at 2101 Connecticut ave. For two years they've been on the priority list for one of the four pent-house apartments, which have little terraces, in the same building. At last success came their way.

Mrs. Shears' first housewarming party on Friday, April 30, will be for only her friends at 2101; her second, on May 6, is in honor of Mrs. George Tyson. The last in the series, May 13, will be for the board of governors of the Women's National Democratic Club.

Several of Washington's most beautiful embassies will be opened to the public today from 2 to 5 p.m. Occasion will be the embassy tour and tea, sponsored by the Women's Guild of Goodwill Industries.

CORRECTION

Through error The Washington Post, in its account Friday of the historic home and garden tours in Maryland and Virginia, listed Chandler's Hope in Charles County, Md., as owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Carlyle Turner. Chandler's Hope, which will be open to the public Sunday, April 25, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vroom de Mott, who have owned the place since 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Carlyle Turner will open their home, Keechland, also in Charles County, for the tour, which is sponsored by the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland.

The Washington Post regrets the error.

Recipe Given For Corn Sticks

1 cup all-purpose flour
2 cups cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs (well beaten)
1 cup sweet milk (about)

Sift all dry ingredients together. Cream shortening and sugar together. Add well beaten eggs. Then add dry ingredients and milk alternately.

Is it possible to obtain a simple metal cutter for making artificial flowers, leaves and petals from paper? I have a friend in Norway who is making such flowers. She is now doing it with scissors but has heard that some tools might be available here. I have not succeeded in finding out. Could you help me? M. G.

It seems there are no ready-made cutters on the market for the specific job your friend wishes done. However, a stamping or punch machine which could be operated by the hands or feet could probably be made to order. I understand that the Franco Manufacturing Co., Racine, Wis. has been very helpful in the past in working out machines to meet their customers' needs, and therefore, I would suggest you write to them giving as much information as possible when you write as to size, shape and number of shapes needed.

Can you tell me how to take grease spots out of wallpaper? B. R.

Cover the spots with a thick layer of soft paste, (not too moist) made by mixing Fuller's earth or powdered chalk with carbon tetrachloride. When paste is dry, brush away. If all of the grease is not removed with the first application, repeat. If the wallpaper is soiled, it is wise to clean the area surrounding the grease spot with a dough type cleaner before applying the paste, to avoid formation of a soiled ring at the edge of the poultice.

I recently purchased an aluminum egg poacher consisting of a saucepan with three little aluminum cups to hold the eggs. The eggs are steamed or poached above the boiling water in the covered saucepan. Although I followed directions and lightly greased the cups, the eggs do not slip out but have to be turned out with a knife and the yolk frequently breaks. Can you tell me how to slip the eggs out of the cups? H. N. T.

You can probably remove the eggs from the cups with greater ease if you will season the cups before trying to use them again. To do this, cover the inside with an unsalted oil or fat and place in a very slow oven (250 degrees F.) for an hour or so. Let them cool with the fat on them and then wipe off excess fat. Do not wash. When you wish to poach eggs, have the water in the poacher boiling and the cups hot before placing the eggs into the cups. Use an unsalted fat to grease the cups. If you wish, a dot of butter can be put onto the eggs when done before serving for flavor, but do not use butter to cook them as this fat causes sticking.

To both N.M.T. and W.L.H. who have asked for suggestions for baby showers:

Since we are approaching the rose season, here's an idea which might be used. Invite the guests for lunch or dessert and decorate the dining room table with fern laid flat on the table. Here and there tuck a tiny rose bud. As a centerpiece, have a stork's nest made of a round wicker basket about which are woven vines and more of the roses. Buy, rent or borrow a toy stork, small enough to perch on the edge of the basket nest and from his bill hang a card with a pink ribbon on which is written the name of the guest of honor. In the nest place the gifts wrapped in white tissue paper in the shape of eggs. To do this, the gifts should be sent in advance of the party. Tie the gifts with narrow white ribbon and on the end of each ribbon place a small pink card with the donor's name. Place cards with Mother Goose or stork illustrations will add to the table decorations.

After dessert and the opening of the gifts, the afternoon could be spent piecing and (or) quilting a quilt for baby's crib (the materials provided by the hostess as her gift). As a momento of the occasion each guest could embroider her name on a piece to be sewed into the quilt.

Hecht also reported that the number of transactions during the past year increased 10.2 per cent to 11,461,727. At the same time, cost per transaction dropped 2.2 per cent.

The company operates stores in Washington, Maryland and New York.

COMMON SENSE: The rearmament program can be met without serious effect on the structure, if industry and consumer would exercise common sense and restraint. That's the opinion of Charles B. Dulcan, vice president and general manager of The Hecht Co., who spoke yesterday at a session of the National Conference of Business Paper Editors at the Statler. First effects upon the supply and price structure will probably be psychological, Dulcan said. Some disruption may be expected where there is an imbalance between supply and demand, but he pointed out that in some categories of consumer goods supply is exceeding demand currently.

New York Cotton

New York, April 23 (AP).—Cotton futures turned weak today under recurrent flurries of liquidation and closed $1.45 to $3.05 a bale lower.

Mild favorable crop news, a tendency to take profits following the recent sharp advance, and uncertainty of operation of the various aid programs, encouraged selling. Heavy liquidation in the May 1948 delivery was influenced by the approach of first notice day next Tuesday and the fact certificated cotton stocks increased 1,116 bales to 70,316.

Anti-Lynch Law Provision May Be Used

Richmond, Va., April 23 (AP).—The possibility that the mob provision of the State anti-lynch statute might be invoked against more than 150 men who invaded the property of a non-union strip mine in Buchanan county was indicated strongly here today.

The governor's office let it be known that the State's chief executive felt that if the facts justified reports received by his office, the men involved in the fracas should be arrested on a felony charge and jailed unless they posted appropriate bonds.

Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, acting at the governor's request, ordered the State police to make a full investigation on the action in which R. L. Gilliam of Winston-Salem, N. C., one of the mine owners, was seriously injured Wednesday.

Cooperation Promised

The attorney general said he had discussed with Buchanan County Commonwealth Attorney Isaac Lambert the possibility of prosecution under the anti-lynch law and the local prosecutor promised full cooperation to the extent the facts justified. The possibility of special grand jury action also was brought up in the conversation.

Under the anti-lynch law persons constituting a mob which inflicted bodily harm are subject to stiff prison terms even where the injury is not dangerous.

Buchanan County Trial Justice W. Clyde Dennis said the group consisted of union miners from the UMW organized Red Jacket mine near the Gilliam and Hodges strip mine.

Suffers Broken Jaw

Gilliam, now in a Richlands hospital, received a broken jaw and hip injury. His family planned to have him removed to the University of Virginia hospital at Charlottsville soon to undergo oral surgery.

Dennis said Roy E. Johnson, a Red Jacket miner, had been charged with maiming Gilliam and with violating the State statute against interfering with people at work.

Trespassing warrants were being served against more than 150 persons in the matter, the Governor's office was informed.

Rabies Reported In Three Counties

Richmond, Va., April 23 (AP).—Alarming outbreaks of animal rabies have been reported in three Virginia counties, Halifax, Pittsylvania and Mecklenburg, and other sections of the State, Dr. L. J. Roper, State health commissioner, warned today.

"In 1947 there were 162 rabid animals reported in Virginia, a 50 per cent increase over 1946," he stated, in explaining the United States Health Service reports the Nation has the highest animal rabies death rate in history. There has been a 50 per cent increase over prewar figures, Dr. Roper said.

"There are sufficient facts to indicate that Virginia faces a serious situation," Dr. Roper asserted, saying that he advocated a prevention and control program for the State.

"Since the disease is perpetuated by dogs, the paramount requirement in rabies control is the total annihilation of wandering and stray dogs," he said.

Physician Assails Training of Nurses

Roanoke, Va., April 23 (AP).—Dr. Carrington Williams of Richmond, today criticized present methods of nurse training and called for a reduction of the college training period for nurses to two years.

Dr. Williams spoke at a meeting of the Virginia Graduate Nurses Association here.

"This is an adequate time to train an intelligent girl for bedside nursing," he said. "This should be considered the basic training period. There will be among these graduates many girls of superior intelligence and with broader preliminary education who will wish to go into more advanced fields in their profession."

College graduates, he continued, are considered fully educated whereas a more intelligent young person could spend four years more profitably, emerge without a degree, yet be unable to enter certain medical or nursing schools.

School Board Post Sought by Negro

Charles Town, W. Va., April 23. Precedent has been broken for this (Jefferson) County, where there is much Southern sentiment, in the filing by C. W. Hart, a Negro, of papers for membership on the Jefferson County Board of Education on which there are two positions which will be filled at the elections this year.

There are four other aspirants, all white.

Under the nonpartisan system of voting for school board members the names are placed on both Democratic and Republican ballots without political identification.

Fierst Convicted In Payroll Theft

Baltimore, April 23 (AP).—Mack Wilson Fierst, 37-year-old native of Danville, Va., was sentenced to 20 years in the Marylapd State Penitentiary today for the payroll robbery of a Baltimore contracting firm.

He was convicted in Criminal Court by Judge Herman M. Moser of the $3269 holdup of Mechanical Contractors, Inc., last October 3.

Prosecutors told the court he is wanted by the FBI for trial in Washington on armed-robbery charges.

Until recently, Fierst was being investigated in connection with the killing of Hunter C. Lewis, former convict, whose bullet-pierced body was found last month in a woods near Laurel.

A warrant charging Ferst with the killing was issued in Howard County, but a Circuit Court grand jury failed to return an indictment on the charge.

Widow of Man Killed in Scuffle Sues Railroad

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 23.—The widow of George W. Serrell, Negro, who was killed in February after being removed from a train at Shenandoah Junction, W. Va., is suing the Norfolk & Western Railroad for $100,000.

The plaintiff, Lucille K. Serrell, claims in the suit that C. M. Campbell, a special officer of the railroad, "unlawfully shot and killed" her husband.

The couple were removed from the train for failing to pay fare after leaving Hagerstown, Md. While in the custody of Constable John Brown of Shenandoah Junction, and Campbell in an automobile en route to Charles Town, a scuffle ensued and Serrell was killed when Campbell fired. At an inquest held in Charles Town Campbell was absolved of any charges resulting from the death.

The boy said Melvin was returning home from a party at the time. They are the sons of Mrs. Amanda Day.

Chancel Choir Presentation Is Marked by Naive Charm

By Paul Hume

From Yesterday's Late Editions

St. Francis of Assisi would have rejoiced in the music sung last night in the National Presbyterian Church.

God was worshipped in words of guileless simiplicity, enriched by music most appropriate to the texts. "For I will consider my cat, Jeoffry. For he is the servant of the living God . . ," or again, "For flowers are peculiarly the poetry of Christ." These and many lines besides, fill with fragrant imagery the music Benjamin Britten used to set forth "Rejoice in the Lamb."

Music in Poet's Mood

Christopher Smart, an eighteenth century poet, deeply religious but afflicted in mind, wrote the words, voicing his adoration of the Lord in the utter naivete of the child to whom everything is a source of simple wonder. And in most ingenious manner, the music echoes the poet's mood. Short, syncopated themes tell of Nimrod the mighty hunter, while a flowing melody and warm harmony support the words, "Hallelujah from the heart of God."

This and other music filled a program given by the chancel choir of the National Presbyterian Church under the direction of Theodore Schaefer. The program was presented by the District of Columbia Guild of Organists, together with the Arts Club. It was the second annual program of outstanding merit these two organizations have given to the people of Washington.

Before Britten's happy work we heard Aaron Copland's "In the Beginning," written last spring for Harvard University's symposium on music. Nell Tangeman, mezzo-soprano, who sang the first performances both in Cambridge and New York, sang the difficult solo part again last night, encompassing its problems with ease and fine style. It is not grateful music, and seems empty upon rehearing. There are moments of fine inspiration, as at the words, "Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven," or at the close, "And man became a living soul," but these moments are neither prepared nor sustained.

Schaefer's regular soloists, Katherine Hansel, Rachel Koerner, Jacqueline Taylor, George Barritt and John Tompkins, joined Miss Tangeman in work requiring solo voices, with great credit to themselves. The ladies were particularly effective in Arthur Honegger's "Cantique de Paques" which separated the two longer works. Honegger's familiar "seraphic" style fits beautifully to create a genuinely moving episode.

The choir sang extremely well all evening, in a far from easy program. This was due in large part to Schaefer's playing and direction which has brought many great choral works to Washington. It was a highly rewarding evening, even though the American entry ran third out of three.

Kiah Put Back On List for Job At Cheltenham

Baltimore, April 23 (AP).—Walter D. Owens, State employment commissioner, said today he had put Calvin L. Kiah back on tht list of eligibles for the job as superintendent of the State's Cheltenham Training School for Negro Boys despite Kiah's recent dismissal.

Owens said Kiah also retains the preferences that Maryland law gives to war veterans competing for State jobs.

The employment commissioner said he had put Kiah back on the list because he did not agree with the dismissal and the reasons for it did not include any charge of "moral turpitude."

Kiah formerly was principal of a Negro high school at Cambridge. He won the Cheltenham job last August in competitive examinations, partly because of extra points and other considerations he received as a veteran.

The school's board of managers fired him at the end of a six-month probationary period for failure to demonstrate the "required administrative ability, judgment, temperament and leadership."

Some members of the board protested the action was taken without their having a chance to vote.

The board resigned about the same time so Governor Lane could appoint a new one made up entirely of Negroes. The new board has not appointed a superintendent for the Prince Georges County institution.

Owens asked Attorney General Hall Hammond to give him a ruling on Kiah's status.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Puzzle Fans Are on Their Own; Bill Passes Up Item

A couple of weeks ago I printed a reader's suggestion that entrants in the Disabled American Veterans' puzzle contest tell each other their scores in this space.

These letters pointed out that a person with a poor score might be dissuaded from entering the contest if he heard about somebody who had done better. Less entrants would mean less money for the DAV.

After mulling the matter over carefully, I've reached the conclusion that it would be best not to publish the scores.

In conclusion, I extend my thanks to the following District Liners, who expressed opinions on the question of printing the scores:

FOR: Mrs. Carey T. Dorset, Route 1, Manassas, Va.; Arnold Novick, 803 4th st. se.; Mrs. Edna C. Miller, 5434 Taylor st., Bladensburg, Md.; Col. B. A. Day, 1218 Connecticut ave. nw.; Midshipman D. K. Robbins, United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.; Harriet Scott, Mrs. Ellis Haworth, Westchester Apartments; Prof. Gordon Ireland, 4700 30th st., Mount Rainier, Md.; Mrs. J. J. Brice Burroughs, 321 Woodland rd.; S/Sergt. and Mrs. Joe Terrien, Fort Myer, Va.; P. B. Paddock, 911 Enderby dr., Alexandria, Va.; C. E. Hamblin, Montgomery-Blair High School; H. C. H., 3216 Otis st., Mount Rainier, Md.; A. C. E., Box 114, Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Elizabeth Waters, 9658 Baltimore blvd., Berwyn, Md.

AGAINST: Mrs. J. W. Howard, 1204 S. Alfred St., Alexandria, Va.; S/Sergt. B. M. Eklund, 3984 Pennsylvania ave. se.; J. R. Van Fossen, Mrs. R. Robert Rapp, 1 Scott cir.; Alice K. Van Devanter, 8600 Manchester rd., Silver Spring, Md., and Elbridge Colby of the Dorchester House.

MILLS OF THE GODS

About eight months ago a District Liner suggested a method of beautifying those gaunt piles of masonry which are left when bridges are dismantled.

In New England, he pointed out, vines cover the naked sides, and a few inches of soil on top permits flowers to grow there—removing the last vestige of ugliness.

The suggestion was passed along to Engineer Commissioner Young's office, which certainly cannot be accused of taking precipitous action.

After some five months I got a call from one of General Young's assistants. The Commissioner was interested in the suggestion, and the caller wanted to know whether I was available to drop in and discuss it with the boss.

Having assured him that I was, I've spent the next three months sitting by my telephone, waiting to be called.

Since nothing has happened, however, I think I might as well go home now and get a night's sleep.

A BRIEF MESSAGE TO OUR SPONSORS

Radio's spot announcements are dreary compositions at best. Yes, radio's spot announcements are dreary compositions at best. With men who prize their sanity, radio's spot announcements are dreary compositions at best.

(That paragraph was inspired by the thought that some of my radio friends read this column, and I'd like to even things a bit by beating them over the head for a while, just as they bludgeon their listeners.)

But what I started out to say was that, on occasion, a spot announcement proves entertaining, in spite of itself.

Like the one paid for by the outfit that wants to teach you to play the piano in one day. In this one, the announcer says:

"If you want to learn to play the piano in one day, you'll have to hurry."

There, my friends, is the understatement of the week. Yes, there my friends is the . . .

Steady, old man, steady. You can whip this thing if you put your mind to it.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Commenting on my Monday column which relegated the Browns to eighth place, Al Sollod of 2030 E. 81st. st., Cleveland, Ohio, replies:

"You're making a mistake. The Cleveland Browns are the best team in the league—football, that is."

OLD, BUT STILL GOOD

Harry Traub of 2743 N. Lorcom lane, Arlington, Va., recalls a bewhiskered story which is so funny I'm going to print it once more, for the benefit of anybody who hasn't already heard it.

It has to do with the Brooklyn rookie policeman who found a dead horse on his beat on Kosciuszko st., and immediately started tugging the carcass down the block.

A passing sergeant interrupted his labors with, "Hey, what are you dragging the horse for? We've got trucks for that. Just fill out your report and they'll come and get him."

"I know that," replied the rookie, "but I can't make out my report until I get him over to Third ave. I can't spell Kosciuszko."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Medium" will be filmed in England, with the original Broadway cast . . . Budd Schulberg, author of "What Makes Sammy Run?" and "The Harder They Fall" is writing his third novel. This one, like his first, will have a Hollywood background . . . Katharine Hepburn will co-star with Spencer Tracy in the film adaptation of "Edward, My Son" . . . Ruth Gordon, the actress-playwright, has agreed to give all her letters from eminent people to the Yale University Library. Miss Gordon now writes her friends: "If you want to get into Yale University, write me a letter."

A group of New York opera officials tried to interest Rouben Mamoulian, who did "Oklahoma!" "Porgy and Bess" and "Lilliom," in directing some operas. "For too many years the opera has concentrated only on singing and neglect acting," their spokesman told him. "Opera must be modernized and you're the man to do it." . . . "That would have at least one advantage," said Mamoulian, "I'd be working with a production where the customers whistle the tunes when they enter the theater as well as when they leave it."

Germaine Aussey, the French actress, has received all the press-clippings on the new show at the Ringling circus—the clippings which described particularly all the elephants, bears, horses, seals, monkeys, tigers and lions. "I was married to John Ringling North, head of the circus, and the man who produced this show," she said. "We split because he wouldn't allow me to keep one ordinary dog in our apartment."

U.S. People 'Won Italian Election'

By Drew Pearson

One of the great things about the Italian election was that, in more ways than one, it was a people-to-people victory.

While the Moscow radio was prating about the proletariat, the American people were in close, actual touch with the Italian people. And it was this contact, by millions of letters, by telegrams and by relief, which tipped the scale in the Italian election.

When this columnist traveled through Italy on the Friendship Train last Christmas, a large number of the cities were governed by Communist mayors. The De Gasperi government hung on by a precarious margin. If an election had been held then, most observers agreed the Communists would have won.

The Friendship Train, arriving at this particular time, helped make people realize who their real friends were. The State Department's adroit moves in regard to Trieste and in getting the American fleet out of Italian waters took the wind out of Communist propaganda. Ambassador Dunn's tireless efforts in publicizing the arrival of United States food shipments helped turn the tide.

And on top of all this came the friendship letter-writing campaign to the people of Italy. Suggested from Rome last December by this columnist, the campaign was pushed by Generoso Pope in his Italian-American newspaper, Il Progresso. Day after day he pounded home the idea. Then it was taken up by others, until a million extra letters a week cleared the New York Postoffice for Italy.

Everybody Wrote

All sorts of people helped. Out in Toledo, Mayor Mike di Salle formed a committee to encourage friendship letters. Unpublicized in the same city, Marion Antonini, a high school student, worked late every night translating letters, even paying postage from his own pocket . . . In Philadelphia, Ralph Marlowe, chief interpreter of the Municipal Court, toured Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware drumming up letters to Italy . . . Citizens of Locust Valley, N. Y., organized "Operation Democracy," which they called the "People's Marshall Plan," and speeded up their plan of aiding the Italian City of Ponte Carvo, destroyed by war . . . In Schnectady, Pat Truchio helped raise $5000 to send cables to the Italian people . . . In Jersey City, Richard Bonomo got up a special message from Italian-Americans addressed to the people of Laurenzana, the town from which they came . . . In Lansing, Mich., Mrs. Elizabeth Belen boosted the letter-writing campaign . . . Even in St. Petersburg, Fla., a city distant from the centers of Italian population, the chamber of commerce raised money for cables back to Italy . . . This is just a cross-section of what thousands of Americans did in the people-to-people campaign to win the Italian election. The roll call is too long to call in one column.

War Brides Talk to Italy

Then there was radio. Walter Lemmon of World Wide Broadcasting, an endowed foundation, turned all his facilities loose on Italy. Mrs. John Lodge, wife of the Connecticut Congressman, devoted most of her time to helping beam these broadcasts . . . Generoso Pope's station WHOM, New York, gave Italo-Americans a chance to talk to their relatives back home . . . Some wept, some laughed, all exhorted their friends in Italy to vote for democracy. Crowds lined the street four-abreast, one block long outside Pope's radio station . . . And station WOV, New York, put on special programs by war brides. The Communists have been telling Italians that war brides in the United States were mistreated, so WOV gave these war brides a chance to tell how they were living happily in America, how well Americans treated them, and how important it was to vote for non-Communist friendship with the United States.

In other words the defeat of communism in Italy was because a lot of Americans really went out and worked at the job of making Italian democracy live.

Friendship Train of Books

Congratulations to Joseph Brandt, president of the Henry Holt Publishing Co., for suggesting a "friendship train" of books for Europe. Mr. Brandt proposes that all publishers get together at the end of each year and donate their unsold non-fiction books about America to Europe. Large publishers, says Mr. Brandt, have thousands of unsold books about America gathering dust on the shelves. Why not send them to Europe?

Note—A train of books now may save a boatload of bullets later.

Truman Recalls War

When GOP Congressman Tom Martin of Iowa introduced Horace Havenner, national commander of the Spanish War vets, to President Truman the other day, the President recalled his own excitement as a boy when the United States declared war on Spain.

"It was one of the biggest disappointments of my life that I was unable to serve," said Truman. "All my neighbors were going, but I was only 14 at the time and too young."
